A Cloud Of Lethal Dust

About all I recall about my prep school physics year is that for five successive days I had the teacher in a greatly upset state. By bringing a small music box to class, concealed in a coat pocket, and turning it on when instruction began, the effect of faint, distant music could be created.

I recall that on the first two or three days my teacher, Dr. Clarence Rothwell Wilcox, now President of Darlington and a trustee of Davidson College, would frown deeply, cock his head, get up and go to the window and look searchingly about. The next two days he sat staring before him, as if worried, because he seemed to be hearing nonexistent music. The next day he called me up and asked me what I had in my pocket. "A music box," I said. "I should have guessed it was you," he said, a statement which wounded me greatly. I don't know why it was, but somehow I never obtained a good foundation in physics.

This lack has followed me to this day, and I cannot discuss the hydrogen-cobalt bomb with any assurance. I am, none the less, a subscriber to, and faithful reader of, The Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, published monthly by the Educational Foundation for Nuclear Science in Chicago.

Lethal Dust

In the October issue there is an article by James R. Arnold, of the Nuclear studies division of the University of Chicago. It is in reply to a recent Chicago Round-Table discussion which caused something of an uproar in scientific circles. In it Prof. Leo Szilard suggested the hydrogen bomb could be used to destroy the entire human race.

Dr. Arnold's article looks into this suggestion of a deadly dust in all the skies and his answer is but slightly comforting, and by no means reassuring.

First off, he says the necessary deuterium can be produced. Deuterium, I find, is one part in 5,000 parts of hydrogen. It would be necessary to produce a minimum of 500 tons and a practical maximum of 10,000 tons for the proposed project of exploding a bomb which would leave in its wake a lethal, radioactive dust which might float over the world's surface, destroying the entire human race.

To produce the dust either cobalt or zinc would have to be used along with the deuterium, and since cobalt yields a higher gamma radiation it would be necesary to use cobalt.

That, too, says the scientist researcher, is possible.

Proceeding, our seeking scientist determined it also would be possible to create a "dust" which, if delivered over a three-year period, would be fatal to human beings.

I hurried to the next question —could the radiation be effectively delivered? Dr. Szilard had said the first requirement would have to be that the radioactive particles be fine enough to settle like "house dust.' Alas, and alack, that, too, is possible, according to Dr. Arnold's questing deductions.

By this time gloom sat like a cloud upon my mind. But, Dr. Arnold followed with a single helpful statement, but one enormously ominous in its potential. He did not think it would be possible to distribute the layer of dust uniformly and intensely enough to cause death. Rainfall, and the vast areas where erosion is taking place will not accumulate much activity. Dust falling on open water would be rendered innocuous. Many areas would be left "relatively clean."

Gloom

But, reflectively, there was nothing in this to lift the gloom, which was about my head like an oversized hat. Somehow, the news seemed enormously important, and I wondered it had not been in headlines. But, after all, faced with the "A" and "H" bombs the mind cannot do daily flip-flops.

Step by step Dr. Arnold had reviewed the theory life could be destroyed on the planet. The necessary deuterium can be produced. It would be possible to explode it. The exploded neutrons probably can be absorbed into an element giving rise to a dangerous radioactive isotope. If distributed uniformly as a dust layer over the earth it would irradiate every human being intensely enough to cause death.

But, many areas would be left "relatively clean."

In other words, it is perfectly possible to create a dust layer which would be lethal for large areas of the world. Several of such explosions, presumably, could cover an area as large as the United States without too much trouble—or most of the Soviet Union, much of Europe.

This was not at all reassuring to an old physics student.

GIs Turn Back Fierce Attack On Beachhead

By RUTHERFORD M. POATS

TOKYO, Saturday, Dec. 16—(UP)—American troops battling hand to hand and from dug-in tanks broke the backbone of the first great Chinese assault on the shrinking Allied beachhead in northeast Korea Friday.

The U. S. 3d Division ring of steel sagged back one to two miles under a fanatical assault by 2,000 Chinese shock troops eight miles west of Hungnam. But it did not break. Finally the Chinese fell back from a snowy battlefield strewn with the bodies of half their attacking force.

The battle raged all day. It surged toward, but did not come within sight of, the vital Yongpo air base, still swarming with Allied transport craft. The enemy still was some 11 miles northwest of the Hungnam port area.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule's hard-fighting GIs won a tactical victory in the preliminary showdown west of Hamhung. But it only gave the defenders of the 12-mile-deep beachhead time to brace for new onslaughts. Three Chinese divisions were within striking distance and eight or nine more were massing nearby.

Two U. S. platoons totaling about 100 men were engulfed by the Chinese onsurge. At least one was written off as lost. But gunfire crackled across the pitch black no-man's land about midnight, possibly marking an attempt by the lost Yanks to fight their way back.

Although the Chinese knocked a dent in the beachhead perimeter, division officers were confident they could guard as long as necessary the pocket in which the Chinese pinned the U. S. 10th Corps against the Sea of Japan, field dispatches reported.

Infantrymen, artillerymen and tree-scraping Marine and Navy fighter pilots reported that 1,000 of the Chinese, some of them mounted on Mongol ponies, were killed and hundreds more were wounded in the battle.

As the Americans tightened their cordon around the port city of Hungnam and its neighboring industrial center of Hamhung with the nearby Yongo airport, they destroyed the bridges, rail lines and other transport arteries leading into the pocket.

Sirens Set For Defense Signal Role

All police and fire sirens in Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb Counties will be used as emergency air raid warning signals in the Atlanta area until a permanent alarm system is established, George M. "Pup" Phillips, Area Civil Defense Director, announced here Friday.

Decision to set up warning signals now was made in a meeting attended by Phillips, Mayor Hartsfield, Police Chief Herbert Jenkins, Fire Chief C. C. Styron and City Supsrintendent of Electrical Affairs Dewey Johnson.

They announced the "red alert" signal for imminent attack would consist of a three-minute blast of varying pitch by all sirens.

They said the "all-clear" signal, meaning danger had passed, would be a series of three one-minute blasts by sirens, interrupted by two-minute periods of silence.

Phillips said 15 old sirens left over from World War II would be installed at strategic places in the Atlanta area Monday. He said the first of these will be placed at Five Points.

Phillips said he had ordered 150 sirens of one-half and two-horsepower, but he said there might be some delay in delivery since all large cities in the country would be clamoring for sirens. He explained the smaller sirens would be in the downtown area and the larger ones in residential areas.

The action in setting up the emergency alarm system here came as a result of a request by Federal Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell who said warning signals should be established and made "effective at once."

Caldwell said when a "red alert" warning was sounded all persons should go immediately to designated air raid shelters—or, if that is impossible, take cover in the nearest modern building, subway, or other suitable underground shelter.

He said those who were in their homes at the time would find that the basement is "probably the safest place to be."

Caldwell said radio and television broadcasts should not be used to convey air raid warnings "at this time."

Faith Taking 'Lung's' Place, Minister Dies

The Rev. Marshall Yancey, 23-year-old polio victim who left an "iron lung" at Grady Hospital two weeks ago against the advice of doctors, died Friday afternoon in a local clinic.

The young Baptist minister signed his own release from Grady Hospital Dec. 2 because, as he put it, "I believed God wanted me to."

Doctors had warned Mr. and Mrs. Yancey that he might not live if he were moved from the respirator. But the minister and his wife said at the time they did not believe the "iron lung" was necessary.

Mrs. Yancey told The Constitution:

"Lots of people who believe in faith healing are praying for him . . . We believe the Lord will answer our prayers that he get well."

Mr. Yancey, who lived at 436 Poole Creek Rd., Hapeville, was employed by the Atlanta Baptist Association.

Bell Plant Reactivation Seen Nearer

Air Force Studies Marietta Site

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Constitution Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—Reopening of the mammoth Bell Bomber Plant at Marietta appeared assured Friday following conferences between Air Force officials and Georgia congressmen.

Rep. Henderson Lanham, of Rome, who originally announced the proposed reactivation, declared he is "confident" the plant will be reopened.

Both Lanham and Sen. Walter George indicated Congress is certain to provide all military appropriations requested by the Defense Department, including money to reopen the plant.

Lanham and George quoted Air Force spokesmen as saying they are giving "active consideration" to the former Bell plant, along with four others formerly operated by the Federal Government.

The Rome representative said officials told him that the projected Air Force program will depend largely on the extent of funds given the Air Force under new rearmament plans.

It was made known in Washington that the Air Force is now negotiating with Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation for reactivation of the giant Marietta plant with an eye toward producing the Boeing B-47 Stratojet Bomber or the Fairchild C-119, a husky cargo and troop transport.

Meanwhile, at Atlanta, Gov. Talmadge said the reactivated plant may employ as many as 40,000 persons. He quoted W. D. McIntyre, chairman of the board of the Fairchild Corporation, as saying the plant would employ 9,000 persons on a peacetime basis and as many as 40,000 during full wartime production.

House Votes 17.8-Billion Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—A $17,809,304,424 emergency appropriation bill was passed by the House by voice vote Friday and sent to the Senate.

The total includes $16,845,181,000 for the military establishment and almost $1,000,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The only change made by the House during five hours of debate was elimination, on a technicality, of a $224,000,000 allotment for the Maritime Commission to build some fast cargo vessels.

Rep. Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, head of the House Appropriations Committee, said the measure provides the extra defense funds asked by President Truman after the Chinese Communists launched their offensive in Korea.

"We must arm as rapidly as we can," Cannon told the House. "We must be as strong as we can—as soon as we can."

Even as Cannon spoke, Mr. Truman sent Congress a new request for an extra $1,834,911,000 for stockpiling more strategic and critical materials.

A White House statement, announcing Mr. Truman's action, said the stockpiling program must be speeded up in view of recent world developments.

The additional money would make a total of $2,923,911,00 for the stockpiling program in the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Truman Rallies Nation Against 'Grave Danger' In Russian Imperialism

Railmen May Heed Call to End Tieup

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(INS)—President Truman's call upon striking railroad workers to return to work was expected Friday night to bring immediate response from men involved in the wildcat walkouts.

A spokesman for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen said the men probably would stream back to work through the night and early morning hours.

The President in his speech Friday night declared the strike is a danger to "the security of our nation" and added:

"As Commander-in-Chief, therefore, I call upon the Union and its striking members to return to work immediately."

Earlier Friday, in Chicago, U. S. Federal District Judge Michael L. Igoe ordered BRT officials to show cause by 2 p. m. (CST) Monday why they should not be held in contempt of court for permitting a paralyzing rail strike.

The action was taken after U. S. District Attorney Otto Kerner, Jr., and two Department of Justice counsellors filed a petition in Chicago charging 45 BRT officers and 31 local Lodges with defying a government restraining order.

At 2 p. m. Thursday, a hearing will be held on a Government motion seeking a permanent injunction preventing continuance of the so-called "wildcat" strike that has spread through nine major cities and has held up vital shipments to Korea.

The hearing Monday is likened to the arraignment of an individual at which he pleads guilty or innocent to charges.

Kerner said he had been informed by Army officers thta "important Army materiel was standing idle in railroad yards because of the strike." He told Judge Igoe the walkout is crippling the health and safety of the nation.

Among those named in the petition were BRT President W. P. Kennedy and Vice President F. W. Coyle and Samuel Vander Hei.

In Washington, Kennedy said the Union is "endeavoring to halt these unauthorized strikes" and is exerting efforts to prevent them from spreading.

Meanwhile, the heads of four operating Brotherhoods proposed that a "top drawer" mediator be appointed. Leaders of the Trainmen, Engineers, Firemen and Conductors suggested such a mediator be appointed to represent Presidential Assistant John L. Steelman, who they said confessed he is "stumped."

Makes Wilson Industry Czar To Gird U. S.

By ANTHONY LEVIERO
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—President Truman rallied the American people Friday night for a mighty role in the titanic struggle between democracy and communism, and directed Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric Company, to develop a great arsenal of freedom.

The Chief Executive created a new Office of Defense Mobilization as the focus of a tremendous effort to rearm not only this country but all free nations and delegated to Wilson powers exceeding any ever held before by a war mobilizer.

Complete text of President Truman's speech will be found on Page 16.

Bluntly blaming Soviet Russia for "great danger" to our country and its free institutions, Truman called on the American people to turn to ways of austerity from now on. He said they should not only consume less of the good things that we enjoy but should work longer and produce more munitions to create the strength that might prevent World War III.

The President's speech on the crisis of the times was a challenge to aggressors and a challenge to Americans to meet the tests, for,

2 More Guard Units Called

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(INS). The Army Friday night called up two more National Guard infantry divisions for active service beginning Jan. 16.

The units affected are the 31st Division, Alabama and Mississippi, which will train at Ft. Jackson, Columbia, S. C., and the 47th Division, Minnesota and North Dakota, to train at Camp Rucker, near Ozark, Ala.

Four other guard divisions were called to active service this fall and went into training in September.

Russia Demands Hirohito's Trial

Sadie's Father 'Lost,' Way Out in Sight

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Five-year-old Sadie led her father in the front door and whispered to her mother. "I had to bring him home—he was losted."

In truth, Sadie's father was "losted."

He was an alcoholic and, perhaps even worse, a dope addict. He came home from the war in that condition—moody, depressed, irresponsible. And things became progressively worse. He lost jobs. He couldn't pay the rent. His family was about to be evicted.

But the day Sadie found him roaming aimlessly about the neighborhood and took him by the hand and led him to the front door was the day he was both "losted" and on his way to being found.

That was the day his wife appealed to the Family Service Society. Almost immediately the case worker got in touch with the Veterans' Administration and the ill father was on his way to the Veterans' Hospital for treatment. The mother was helped to put her three children, Sadie, five, Danny, seven, and the baby, Bobby, three, in a good day nursery and get a job.

Things were looking up for this family until two weeks ago. The mother was stricken with a kidney infection which will prevent her working for a month or more. The baby's slight chest cold turned into pneumonia.

"I had $10 put aside for their Christmas," the mother said. "I have been saving up my lunch money and I felt real easy about things. But that money had to go for medicine for the baby—and the rent money has gone the same way."

The mother's illness will not improve as long as she is beset by fear and gnawing worry over such things as milk for her children. The Family Service Society can help her shoulder her burden until she gets her strength back if it has help from you.

U. S. Freezing Auto Prices

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(INS)—A Federal order freezing prices on automobiles was drawn up Friday night as one of the first steps in President Truman's price controls program and is expected to be issued Saturday.

Officials said the directive will roll back newly announced price increases on General Motors, Ford and Chrysler automobiles and clamp on a ceiling at the levels existing last month.

Presumably, the order will also apply to Nash, which announced price hikes Friday.

The car makers refused the Government's appeal to voluntarily hold the line on prices until at least next March 15 and mandatory controls now will be ordered.

Villa Rica Officer Seized But Escapes

A harried Villa Rica police officer who was kidnaped by a Negro youth late Friday night finally succeeded in disarming his captor after being held prisoner for 40 minutes.

Night Police Chief Cleve Turner escaped unharmed after the Negro, listed as Willie Green, 19, wrested the officer's pistol from him during an attempted arrest.

State Trooper R. D. Ruff said the gun discharged during the second struggle, blowing a hole through the officer's overcoat.

Green, described as a Douglas County farm boy, fled when Turner regained possession of the pistol. He was later arrested and lodged in Douglas County jail for investigation.

Green forced Turner into a Villa Rica police car and ordered him to drive down Highway 78 toward Atlanta. Near Villa Rica city limits, however, the Negro told Turner to return to the downtown section.

A Negro girl had complained that Green stole $5 from her. It was when Turner attempted to place Green under arrest for this that the Negro grabbed his gun.

When Turner drove back into Villa Rica, they picked up the Negro girl who made the complaint.

Green then forced Turner to drive a short distance from town and instructed him to turn down a side road. The car remained parked there while Cobb County, Fulton County and Atlanta police threw up roadblocks throughout this section.

Cold, Fair Today Due in Atlanta

Atlantans should be able to see blue skies again Saturday, but they can expect cold weather to continue.

The weatherman at the Municipal Airport in formal terms forecasts "fair and rather cold." The mercury is slated to reach a high of 44 after a morning low of 30, he said. The temperature range Friday was 37 and 45.

Much of the state was covered by a damp fog Friday, the Weather Bureau reported. Five Southern states were affected by the fog, which halted air and river traffic in New Orleans.

Church Choirs To Laud Christ Child's Birth

By PAUL JONES

Thousands of voices will be raised in song proclaiming the approach of Christmas when cantatas, pageants and programs of Yule carols will be presented in churches throughout the city Sunday.

Hardly a Protestant church will be without ome form of musical presentation. In most of the city's large congregations, robed choirs will sing the story of the birth in the manger of the Christ Child.

Impressive candlelight services, traditional with many churches, will be held Sunday night as trained voices will join in such great choral works as the Christmas portion of Handel's "The Messiah," the cantatas, "Gloria In Excelsis," 'The Dawn of Christmas" and "The Birth of Christ."

Probably the most impressive musical program from the standpoint of size will be the 7:30 p. m. presentation at the Baptist Tabernacle Sunday. The five choirs, numbering nearly 500 voices, will be featured in the Christmas story and drama. The Chancel and Sanctuary choirs, consisting of 130 voices, will present Maunder's "Bethlehem," a cantata, which will be dramatized with beautiful costumes and elaborate lighting effects.

The Vesper, Carol, and Angel choirs will sing Christmas carols between acts of the cantata. The entire program will be under the direction of Jack B. Jones, Minister of Music. Marcus Bartlett will preside at the four-manual organ and Mrs. Jack B. Jones will preside at the piano.

First Baptist Church, choir, with more than 400 voices, will be presented in another impressive service which annually attracts more than 2,000 persons to the large sanctuary on Peachtree and Fourth Sts. Full choirs under the direction of Ray Smathers will sing anthems and carols starting at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Another traditional Christmas program which attracts widespread interest is the Five O'Clock program at Peachtree Christian Church which Sunday will feature the Chancel and Antiphonal choirs of 60 voices under the direction of Dr. Oliver Herbert singing "The Messiah." The full choirs will be featured during the 11 a. m. service, also, in a special Christmas carol program.

GOP in Congress Votes Demand To Fire Acheson

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—The Republican members of Congress by overwhelming majorities voted no confidence Friday in Secretary of State Dean Acheson and demanded his dismissal from office in the name of national unity.

They called also for "a thorough housecleaning in the State Department and changes in personnel and policies responsible for this lack of confidence."

They took this action against the highest officer of President Truman's cabinet almost on the eve of Acheson's scheduled departure for Europe for grave consultations with this country's western European allies. He is to leave Sunday for a conference of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic treaty organization.

Congressional Democrats for the most part kept silent in the face of the attack on Secretary Acheson, an attack without known exact example in the history of the United States.

Sen. Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, the Democratic leader of the Senate, who is serving his last days since he was defeated for reelection in November, rose, however, to shout bitterly that the Republicans had now issued "an invitation to Stalin to strike wherever he cares to strike because he knows that America is divided."

President Truman himself, who under the Constitution selects all the members of his cabinet subject to the confirmation of the Senate, had stated only a few weeks ago that Secretary Acheson would continue in his post, his detractors notwthstanding.

The demonstration of the Republicans amounted to a public censure of Acheson by a party that in the oncoming Eighty-second Congress assembling in January will remain in the minority by only the barest of margins. No Congress could expel any member of the cabinet, save by an impeachment action brought by the House of Representatives and tried by the Senate.

AEC Hikes Fund Total For H-Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission plans to spend another $392,000,000 on the Savannah River atomic plant and hopes to have it in operation within 18 months.

This was disclosed Friday in testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee on President Truman's request for $1,050,000,000 for expanding the atomic energy program. The committee cut $210,000,000 from the request.

The $392,000,000, added to $260,000,000 made available last fall for a plant which, it was announced two weeks ago, would be the Savannah River plant between the Savannah River plant between Augusta, Ga., and Anderson, S. C., boosts its estimated cost to about $600,000,000.

But, said Gordon Dean, chairman of the AEC, in testimony before the committee:

"I would hate to be frozen to that, because you must appreciate that the estimates we are making today are on the cost of producing units that have never been built before."

Commission witnesses told the committee that the Savannah plant is to be a "dual purpose" one—it could be used for either atomic or hydrogen bomb production.

Dean, without referring specifically to the Savannah River plant, said at one point that the general expansion program "is primarily for facilities which are for a dual purpose, and we have to have them to go either way, because we do not know today as the feasibility of an H-bomb program."

Tied in closely with the Savannah River atomic plant is possible expansion of electric power production in that area.

Senators Maybank and Johnston, South Carolina Democrats, have said the plant will require quick completion of the $80,000,000 Clark Hill hydro-electric project. They said the Hartwell power site on the Savannah River between Hartwell, Ga., and Anderson, S. C., also should be developed to assure adequate power at the atomic plant.

Housing problems also are expected. Maybank says he will introduce next week legislation to provide homes for the Savannah River plant as well as other defense areas.

Posse Hunts N. M. Slayer Of Georgian

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 15—(AP) A posse beat through brushy country on the outskirts of Santa Fe Friday night seeking a frustrated lover who killed his rival and held the woman captive overnight.

'Stormy' Harris

The fugitive is Lucian H. "Stormy" Harris, 52-year-old steamfitter and former resident of Pelican, La. He told the woman he would kill himself rather than be taken alive and gave her a suicide note when he released her at 10:30 a. m. at her parents' home. He carried a deer rifle into the brush.

A posse including low-flying airplane spotters searched for Harris in vain. There was no answer to loudspeaker message: "Lay down your gun Harris, and come in."

The girl—Adelina Lucero, 24—said Harris struck her only once during the 17 hours she was held captive. That was when he forced her into his auto after ambushing her common-law husband with a shotgun charge of buckshot late Thursday.

The husband was Lancelot Chumbley Brown, Jr., 29-year-old former Marine of Adeville, Ga., and Deming, N. M. (The name "Adeville" in the hospital records may have been an error, for Abbeville.) About seven hours after the shooting he died in a hospital as he was giving a statement in which he named Harris as the man who shot him.

The shooting happened at the Lucero home, just as the family was returning from the funeral of the girl's father. While Mela and Connie Lucero, 15 and 13, watched, three shots were fired, one of them striking Brown in the groin.

Drew Pearson Labeled Red By McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U.P.). Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, charged Friday that Drew Pearson, radio commentator and newspaper columnist, is a "fiendishly clever" voice of international Communism assigned to the task of smearing enemies of Communism.

He called Pearson a "prostitute of journalism" in a libel-proof speech on the Senate floor, and offered to repeat his accusations elsewhere under certain conditions.

McCarthy called on the American people to demand that newspapers stop buying Pearson's column and boycott stores which carry the product of his radio sponsor.

Pearson, who had a brief tiff with McCarthy in the exclusive Sulgrave Club earlier this week, replied with a statement citing his own "record in fighting Communism which . . . is well known to everyone except the headline-happy Senator from Wisconsin . . ."

Reds Warn Germans of Aiding Allies

BERLIN, Dec. 15—(U.P.)—The Lower House of the Communist East German Parliament Friday unanimously approved the law providing harsh penalties, even death, for all German "warmongers."

The bill will become law Saturday for Communist-directed East Germany. But its wording made it clear that it applied to all Germans.

Western diplomats regarded it as overt propaganda to keep West Germany out of the Atlantic Pact Army through terror—by letting West Germans know what is in store for them if their state is overrun.

The preamble specifically charged the United States, Britain and France with threatening "to involve the German people in a murderous civil war."

The editor of the American-licensed Berlin newspaper Tagesspiegel promptly was named "No. 1 Warmonger" by the Reds. Leaving no doubt as to what it considers a "warmonger," the entire Communist press published a picture of Erik Reger under the caption, "Criminal," and said he repeatedly had advocated dropping the Atom Bomb on Russia.

The law, which had its beginning in Moscow, is expected to be the forerunner of similar legislation in all Russian satellite states.

Its key points were:

1. Punishment, including prison terms, for anyone who incites other nations to disturb "the peace."

2. Anyone propagating acts of aggression or recruiting Germans to participate in belligerent actions is punishable by prison sentences.

3. Anyone glorifying the Atomic Bomb or other weapons of mass destruction is liable to jail sentences.

4. In especially "severe" cases of violation the guilty are liable to punishment by death.

Miner Saved From Cave-In After 2 Days

RENTON, Wash., Dec. 15—(U.P.). A rescue crew brought Miner John Wolti, 54, to the surface Friday night, 54 hours and 25 minutes after he was trapped in a mine shaft cave-in 400 feet underground.

First rescue crews to reach Wolti said he was calling for his wife. However, she could not be taken into the mine. Wolti was trapped Wednesday in the Big Four coal mine, 20 miles southeast of here.

Friday four men were working the shaft when Joe Bertelli said he heard Wolti speak from somewhere beneath several feet of rock and gravel.

"Hello, Wolti," shouted Day Foreman Bill Moses.

"Hello, Bill," Wolti answered in a clear voice.

Wolti's wife was waiting at the pit mouth and when the mine inspector told her, "He's answering our calls—he's alive," she burst into tears and said, "Thank God, thank God!"

Foreman Fred Davies of the Big Four mine said the miners had to work with extreme care so the loose rock wouldn't slide again.

UN Mediators Conferring on Cease-Fire

FLUSHING, N. Y., Dec. 15—(U.P.) The United Nations' three-man mediation team Friday began its critical task of arranging a cease-fire in Korea by conferring with the official representative of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's UN forces.

The mediation group—General Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran, India's Sir Benegal Rau, and Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson—lunched with American delegate Ernest A. Gross to get the first-round views of the U. S.-directed unified command on how a halt in the fighting might be arranged.

There was no immediate announcement when the trio would have its first session with Peking envoy Wu Hsiu-chuan—a session that may hold the key to success or failure of the mediation effort.

The full Assembly, shortly after noon, wound up its three months' load of business except for the top-priority batch of Far East issues that still are unresolved. Most of them are on the docket of the main political committee, which will remain in session indefinitely as a sort of rump assembly and will hold its next meeting Monday.

Traffic Jam Nets Fine for Two Drivers

Traffic Judge Frank White Friday assessed fines against two drivers who, police said, came to loggerheads over a matter of turns on West Peachtree St.

Mrs. Verdery R. Boyd, 42, of a Fairview Rd., N. E., address, told the court she was driving south on West Peachtree and attempted to make a left turn into Peachtree Pl. when she found the way blocked by another car.

William C. Hardman, 26, of 1170 Peachtree St., N. W., declared Mrs. Boyd attempted a "short" left turn. "I stopped," he said, "but she wouldn't come on through."

Mrs. Boyd retorted "there wasn't enough room to go through," and added after she was caught in the turn Hardman refused to back up.

Ptl. George Wallace said traffic was backed up behind both cars.

White assessed a $3 fine against Hardman and $8 against Mrs. Boyd.

CITY HALL NEWS

Rent Control Abolition Heads for Council Test

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A new effort to abolish rent controls in Atlanta is heading for a showdown at City Council's meeting Monday.

Councilman James E. Jackson, long an advocate of decontrol, said Friday he will offer such a measure if 12 members—enough to override an expected veto by Mayor Hartsfield—sign the resolution.

Hartsfield branded the new fight as ill-advised and said it would add to confusion in view of the action of Congress extending controls another 90 days after the Dec. 31 expiration date.

Jackson contended that unless City Council takes positive action to eliminate controls, thousands of Atlanta property owners will be forced to submit to an additional 90-day extension and that any new controls clamped on after that may not bring relief to owners who for the most part have been forced to rent their properties in a 1942 rental market."

He emphasized that if controls are abolished and new controls are voted by Congress later to bolster the defense effort, all Atlanta property owners would be inducted into the new control program on the same basis—"a 1951 rental market rather than leaving their financial stability dependent on the whims of bureaucrats."

Sodium Fluoride Urged

Councilman Wayne Blanchard, chairman of Council's Health and Sanitation committee, will urge addition of sodium fluoride to Atlanta drinking water to help reduce cavities in Atlantans' teeth.

Paul Weir, Waterworks Manager, said if Council will provide the estimated $75-a-day cost, he will use it. Blanchard quoted Dr. James Hackney, City health director, as favoring the plan.

Take Care, Says Mayor

Mayor Hartsfield Friday called on Atlantans to be especially careful this Christmas season to avoid accidents. The appeal followed a request by the National Safety Council.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN BEN HILL WRECK

This Car Failed to Make Curve, Smashed into Utility Pole

Man Killed, 12 Hurt in Car Mishaps

One Georgian was killed, and 11 others injured—at least four critically—in automobile accidents in the State Friday night, police reported.

Oscar Wilson Hopkins, 20, of Cedartown, was killed instantly when the automobile he was driving sideswiped another car and crashed into a utility pole on Highway 27 one mile north of Cedartown, according to Cpl. C. T. Lowry, of the State Patrol.

Truman Snow, 25, also of Cedartown, a passenger in Hopkins' car, was admitted to Cedartown Hospital in critical condition. Lowry said Hopkins' auto sideswiped a car driven by O. C. Whaley, of Rome, who was not injured.

Bill Shead of Cartersville, an employee of General Motors' Doraville plant, was critically injured, on U. S. Highway 41, two miles south of Acworth, Cobb County police said.

Cobb Ptl. Amos Bates said Shead was in Kennestone Hospital in Marietta with multiple chest, abdomen and head injuries. He was reported not expected to live.

The accident occurred, police said, after Shead stumbled and fell into the path of a southbound auto as he stepped from a parked automobile. The vehicle stopped after running over Shead, but the driver drove on when witnesses asked him to take Shead to a hospital, police said.

Six others were injured in a two-car collision at the Access Highway to the Bell Bomber plant and Oakdale Rd., shortly before midnight, and were taken to Grady Hospital.

They were identified as Luther Franklin Shannon, 27, a truck driver for the Akers Motor Lines, his wife, Mrs. Juanita Frances Shannon, 25, and their five-year-old son, Michael Franklin Shannon, all of 1750 Marietta Rd., N. W., Wesley Edmunds, 21, an employee at Plant Atkinson of the Georgia Power Co., in Smyrna; his wife, Mrs. Frances Jeannette Edmunds, and their daughter, Janice Lyon Edmunds, five-months-old, all of Rt. 1, Smyrna.

A transformer and high tension wires fell into the road, when a sedan failed to make a curve on the Campbellton Road, near Ben Hill, striking a utility pole, and injuring two passengers critically and the driver slightly, Fulton County police said.

B. T. Turner, 40-year-old carpenter, of Rt. 2, Fairburn, was admitted to Grady Hospital with severe head and leg injuries, Fulton County Ptl. G. G. Cannon and Ralph Holland said. Miss Mildred Fowler, 25, of 164 Rawson St., S. W., pinned under the wreckage, was admitted to Grady with a compound fracture of the leg and head and internal injuries.

The driver, Watson McCullough, 35, also a carpenter, of Rt. 2, Fairburn, escaped with a slight cut on the finger although patrolmen said the automobile "looked like a train hit it." McCullough was placed in Fulton Tower for drunk driving.

The smashup disrupted electric service to residents in a large area near the wreck scene, blacking out homes for almost an hour before Georgia Power Company crews repaired the torn power lines.

Mrs. Ruth Carroll Parker, 36, of 1025 Oak St., S. W., received bruises to the face, knees and arms in an automobile accident five miles South of Atlanta, hospital records showed. The crash occurred on a narrow bridge on Highway 38.

Yule chimes will play for 30 minutes, then be silenced for 30 minutes each night throughout the holidays.

KOREA

night the perimeter was dotted with roaring fires and flashes of demolition blasts as the defenders wrecked all stores and equipment which could not be pulled back quickly and efficiently.

United Press Correspondent Jack Burby radioed from the beachhead that American patrols probing into the deserted battlefield Friday night found no living Chinese.

Third Division officers never doubted that the lull in the fighting was only temporary. They believed the 2,000 Chinese troops in the first big charge against the beachhead rim merely spearheaded an onrush by the enemy forces massed nearby.

The battle west of Hamhung exploded in full fury about 8 a. m. Friday. But outpost platoons had been trading rifle fire with the Chinese since 10 p. m. Thursday. They alerted the artillery after hearing the enemy troops moving up under cover of darkness.

The Chinese hit hard and at three places along the line where the American defenses were spread the thinnest. At first the GIs didn't figure the attack was serious. The first platoon to be surrounded radioed that it was cut off, but not worried.

Then the outposts were called back and a company-size rescue force headed west from the defense line to look for the two platoons now missing. The company was hard hit and had to fight its way back in hand-to-hand struggles with heavy losses.

Some of the heaviest enemy pressure was around Chigyong, six miles southwest of Hamhung, on the trunk highway and railroad winding south-westward down the coast.

TRUMAN

he said, we would appease nobody anywhere.

In a last-minute addition to the prepared text of hi speech Friday night, President Truman called on striking railroad workers to end their walkout and return to work immediately.

The austerlity program will begin Saturday. In the forenoon the Chief Executive will proclaim a state of national emergency and issue an executive order defining the unparalleled powers that will make Wilson, a production expert, second only to the President of the United States.

Immediately thereafter the present control agencies, and primarily the economic stabilization agency, will begin to roll out orders selectively controlling prices and wages and the allocation of goods and materials.

The President's long speech, broadcast at 10:30 p. m. over all major radio and television networks, and over the global network of the Voice of America, was replete with proposals for attaining full mobilization if it should become necessary. Mr. Truman stated three main objectives:

1. We will continue to uphold the principles of the United Nations, and fight for them if necessary.

2. We will continue to strengthen the unity of free nations.

3. We would greatly increase our own armed forces, and continue to strengthen our allies.

Itemized, Mr. Truman's proposals for attaining these objectives were as follows:

1. Our armed forces, now totaling approximately 2,500,000, will be increased within a few months to nearly 3,500,000. Selective Service quotas will be augmented and two additional National Guard divisions will be called into federal service next month.

2. The government will begin "at once" to apply price controls on a number of materials and products essential to defense production and to steady the cost of living.

3. Wages will be controlled in the portions of the economy where prices are controlled, as the Defense Production Act of 1950 requires.

4. Fair standards for prices and wages will be announced where mandatory controls are not imposed, and, if these standards are violated, compulsory controls and rollbacks will be ordered.

5. Wilson's Office of Defense Mobiliaztion will be responsible "for directing all the mobilization activities of the government, including production, procurement, manpower, transportation and economic stabilization."

6. We must not only cut back production of civilian goods but expand the economy to increase war production.

7. Military production will be rapidly increased to multiply within a year the production of planes five times, combat vehicles four times, and electronics equipment four and a half times.

8. Workers will be asked to work longer hours; more women and young people and older people will be needed in factories; farmers will have to produce more food products; and businessmen will have to apply all their know-how to expand production.

9. Mr. Truman will soon request Congress to place as much of the defense costs as possible on a pay-as-you-go basis. This is a new measure to be added to the existent restrictions on credit buying, increased taxes and the excess profits tax. which, Mr. Truman said, he hoped Congress will enact in the present session. He said these measures would hold prices, and therefore inflation, down and reduce the future burden of the rearmament effort.

10. The budget director has been directed to reduce non-military expenditures to a minimum.

Mr. Truman more sharply than ever before specified that Russia was the evil master behind the aggressions, the Red imperialism and the tensions that have kept the world uneasy since World War II started.

Approximately 290,000,000 train passengers enter and leave New York City every year.

Atlantans Cuss, Groan Over Yule Mail Plight

By MARJORY SMITH

The irate elderly woman with blood in her eye and Yuletide parcels spilling from a hamper shook her umbrella under the mail clerk's nose.

"Young man," she snapped, "I'll never do business with this Post Office again. I'm taking my packages to the Federal Annex from now on!"

But at the Federal Annex, frustrated Christmas parcel-mailers with kissing cousins and other gift-expecting kin or friends in Eastern states found the same situation prevailing; a limited mail embargo made many packages unmailable except at exorbitant airmail rates.

"There'll be some I. O. U.'s under the Christmas tree this year," grinned Oren L. Roberts, of East Point.

Another Post Office patron who went home with neatly-tied bundles to "wait out this silly embargo" was Mrs. William V. Neeley, of 127 Mills St.

"I'll just write the folks in Pittsburgh and New York a card and tell them to expect their presents when they see them," she sighed.

Mrs. Peter Cocchi, of 870 Washington St., stood irresolutely with two heavy packages. "My, I don't know what to do now," she murmured. "Crocheted table cloths and doilies for my two married daughters, one in Pennsylvania and one in Vermont. Months I been working on them, to surprise them for Christmas. Now they tell me to airmail one package will cost $3.65 all by itself!"

Atlantans, philosophical or sulky, Friday found they wouldn't even mail unsealed Christmas cards from Post Office here to 10 Eastern states and the cities of Washington and Chicago.

Practical souls dashed to department stores to exchange bulky gifts for stockings and lightweight silk scarves that will go airmail.

A few had trouble understanding the spreading strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen—not the Post Office—was responsible for the embargo.

Postmaster Lon Livingston late Friday had "no idea" when the mail embargo would be lifted. But until further notice, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and the two cities of Washington and Chicago are shut off except for first class mail—and that limited to first class mail below eight ounces.

Some parcel-mailers succumbed wryly to airmail rates — even though a young man sending his girl in Washington, D. C., a two-pound box of candy found postage cost more than the candy.

Mrs. Barbara Jameson, of 1868 Harper St., N. W., sending blocks to her three-year-old son's baby cousin in Gloucester, Me., affixed $1.82 in airmail stamps.

All air lines here reported they were snowed under with unprecedented volumes of airmail, air express, and air freight.

Livingston pointed out the embargo currently affects only post offices south of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers. It does not include daily newspapers, but includes other second class mail (publications); third class (circulars and catalogs); fourth class (parcel post), and first class mail weighing more than eight ounces.

The Railway Express office here Friday refused to accept express for an area including all of the 10 states under the mail embargo plus the cities of St. Louis, Chicago, and Washington, D. C.

Officials said the embargo was complete, with no express packages of any size—perishable or otherwise—accepted.

The Railway Express office advised Atlantans planning to ship express to check before bringing it down because "we expect new orders widening the embargo area as strikes spread."

Trolleyman In Death Case

William O. Cole, 34-year-old trolley operator, Friday was placed under $1,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter returnable to the Fulton County grand jury in the Oct. 25 traffic death of John C. Rochester, 73, of East Point.

Judge Frank White assessed the bond after attorneys for Cole waived preliminary hearing in traffic court.

Earl M. Rochester, 52, of East Point, a son of the victim, and Florie Sewell, 36, of 241 Chestnut St., N. W., a passenger on the trolley, were injured. The trolley struck a car occupied by the Rochesters at Gordon and Lawton Streets.

Mr. Truman's Disappointing Talk

Mr. Truman's address to the nation last night was disappointing.

Though what follows the President's proclamation today of a national emergency may give it an entirely new interpretation, his speech dwelt upon compromises with reality. Except on a few matters, he was not specific about the course the country will be called upon to follow in order to prepare to meet the Communist threat.

Instead of the bold, fearless approach the situation demands, the President only said there would be partial price controls, increase of the armed forces to about 3,500,000—and warned of the hard road ahead. He soft-pedaled the issue of wage controls, which are necessary to effective price controls, by saying the Government would "undertake to stabilize wages."

There is hope, though, that the mild tone of the President's speech, and his lack of specific prescriptions, will turn when the results of the emergency proclamation begin to unfold. He has named Charles E. Wilson, President of General Electric, as director of mobilization activities. Mr. Wilson had a great deal of experience in mobilization during the last war and is one of the country's ablest executives. He is the sort of person who would demand, and get, a free hand in performing the job.

It might be, then, that Mr. Truman's moderation was intentional in order to allow Mr. Wilson time to work out the controls necessary and obtain the staff he needs to put them into effect. Let us hope so.

What Mr. Truman has proposed is far from all-out mobilization. It is, in fact, merely a slight increase in the present leisurely pace. It sounds good to say that four times as many planes will be coming off the assembly lines a year from now. But the truth is our present plane production is painfully small. The same is true of combat vehicles and other items the President mentioned.

The difference between Mr. Truman's proposals and full mobilization is better understood by comparisons. In 1942 this country spent $55,000,000,000 for military purposes. That was, roughly, half the national income at that time. In October of that year the Federal Reserve Board said 80 percent of all durable goods being produced were for defense.

Today the national income is running at about $230,000,000,000. The armed forces are issuing orders for military goods at the rate of about $2,000,000,000 a month or $24,000,000,000 a year. That is about 11 percent of the national income.

We have known for five months that mobilization might be required any day. Yet, there appear to have been no plans for such an eventuality in Washington. The armed forces claim they cannot take men at a much faster rate because they have not the facilities to train them. But since Korea the money has been available and the probable need has been in evidence.

Mr. Truman rightly said the future of civilization depends upon what we do now and in the months ahead. We fear that what he proposes is not enough.

Mr. Dewey's Sensible Program

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's speech on Thursday night made all Americans straighten up a bit and a warm glow surge through their bones.

It was not a belligerent speech. But Mr. Dewey laid the facts on the line, as the saying goes, and he presented a clear-cut, intelligent program of action for meeting the Communist threat.

It is all-out mobilization. Not by the end of 1951 or 1952—but beginning immediately.

We do not believe Governor Dewey underestimated the peril facing our country and our civilization.

"In a world of brute force," he declared, "there is freedom only for the brave. If we are not prepared to fight for our freedom then we shall surely lose it. If we are prepared to fight, we still could win."

The only way of stopping Communist aggression, he pointed out, is to be prepared to defeat it on the battlefield. Since the Communists understand nothing but force they might see in our preparation a deterrent to a third world war. But if we do not prepare—and do so speedily—we shall surely lose.

There is no alternative.

The program Governor Dewey called for is tough. It would mean many sacrifices for everybody—not merely for those who enlist or are inducted into the armed forces. He would register everybody—men and women alike—above age 17 for national service. Whether they serve in the armed forces or in industry would depend upon the need of the country.

But there are armed forces at our immediate command which have not yet been called into the country's service. Mr. Dewey would call all National Guard units into active service immediately. Presumably, that would mean all reserves, too, would be ordered to duty.

Mr. Dewey favors a 100-division Army, a full-strength Navy and an 80-group Air Force—all to be achieved as fast as possible.

We ought to enlist the aid of all potential allies, whether or not we agree with their internal policies.

Moreover, there would be no disastrous inflation under the Dewey program. He would raise taxes to pay for everything on a current basis. There would be no war debts and no tremendous backlog of war bonds to provide a surge of postwar inflation.

Even if we do everything Mr. Dewey asks, this country, as he pointed out, still will have more personal luxuries and conveniences than any nation in the world. But we cannot retain all our peacetime comforts and our freedom, too.

We do not believe there is any dispute about the choice.

A New Automobile Licensing Plan

If Rep. George L. Smith's plan for abolishing property taxes and license fees on automobiles and substituting a single uniform tax to cover both is not the ultimate solution to this problem it is a long step in the right direction.

Representative Smith, of Swainsboro, says he will submit a bill at the January session of the Legislature to provide for collection of a single automobile tax and license fee by the various counties. Three-fourths of this sum would be kept by the county and the remainder forwarded to the State.

The plan has the advantage of being simpler of operation than previous proposals to require a receipt showing property tax had been paid on an automobile before the owner could purchase a tag. It has what some will regard as the disadvantage of putting all counties on the same basis in so far as revenue from this source is concerned.

A great many counties now make little effort to collect ad valorem taxes on automobiles. County governments lose hundreds of thousands of dollars annually through this failure. Representative Smith's plan would insure collection. Unless something better is offered it ought to be adopted.

Doubtful Compromise

(Augusta Chronicle)

The reported effort being made to settle by compromise Georgia's current school row, which threatens to cause all high schools in the State to lose their accredited standing, is interesting, but it seems doubtful that such a settlement, if made, would get at the root of the matter.

News from Atlanta is that the State Board of Education is split in sharp disagreement on the plan which proposes that the Board restore the 12 school department officials who were fired, and State School Superintendent M. D. Collins in turn would submit to the Board's authority to handle all department personnel and finances.

Even if the compromise were accepted, and the present dispute settled, it is doubtful that the fundamental differences between the Board and Dr. Collins would be cleared up. It is a controversy of long standing and the roots of the issue go deep.

When the Legislature meets again it should undertake to clarify Dr. Collins' authority, and if there is still any question about it the whole matter should be carried into the courts for a legal ruling.

Only Four Times

(Cairo Messenger)

We think every person, firm or corporation, even to newspapers, should practice what they preach, especially when they go to the trouble or advocating anything pertaining to economy.

It has been a law for years for constitutional amendments to be published in various newspapers over the State for nine times. Who put this law on the statute books, we cannot say, neither do we know his reason for setting forth the length of times to be published at nine weeks. It has always been our opinion that this number of issues is rather excessive and as a matter of fact unreasonable.

The Messenger contends that each and every constitutional amendment should be published only for four issues in the official county newspaper in each county in the State, and then be published in a 200-word summary.

We are opposed to this waste of the taxpayers' money, therefore we are against the present law, and think it should be repealed by the next Legislature.

Here's Hoping They Both Lose

Personally, I am as undecided as a man with a one-track mind in love with twins.

Over the Drew Pearson-Joe McCarthy fight, I mean.

As a newspaperman, I have less use for Pearson than Jane Russell for padding.

Thus, when I read about this week's meeting of the Senator and the snooper, my immediate reaction was "Lay on, McCarthy!"

On the other hand, for my money McCarthy is the most irresponsible rabble-rouser to disgrace the Senate since the late and unlamented Huey Long.

Indeed, there are times when I think his "Every man a Commie" cry is more dangerous demagogism than Huey's "Every man a king."

Thus, on second thought, my reaction was "Smear him, Drew, you're the boy who can do it!"

Upon lengthier reflection, I have arrived at a feeling of belligerent neutrality. I trust it will be brutal battle with no innuendoes barred. The contestants are evenly matched and both have an effective—if unfamiliar—ally in the truth.

Go to it, men. May it be a fight to both your finishes!

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Walter George Favors Controls

WASHINGTON—Senator Walter F. George, Chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, takes a strong position on the need for imposing economic controls in the present emergency that faces the country.

The controls should have been put on last September when authorization for the President to act was first voted, he declared.

"When you launch a great military preparedness program such as we are now undertaking," he said, "you must have controls to avoid inflation. Enlarging our forces means more demands for steel, clothing and practically everything that enters into our economic system. It is absolutely necessary that we have controls to keep the national economy within bounds and to prevent a dangerous inflation."

The Georgia Senator is naturally in favor of anything the President orders in this respect.

Sloan Nomination After consultations with Department of Justice officials Senator Richard B. Russell has received assurances that Attorney General J. Howard McGrath will go along with him this time in his indorsement of former Superior Court Judge Boyd Sloan, of Gainesville, for the Federal Judgeship vacancy in the Northern District of Georgia.

This is taken to mean that the Gainesville man now stands a good chance to land the post. Both Georgia Senators had originally submitted Judge Sloan's name for the Judgeship, but President Truman ignored the recommendation and appointed M. Neil Andrews, of Atlanta, whose nomination was later rejected by the Senate.

Senator Russell has not yet heard from the White House, but he has reasons to believe the President will honor the Sloan indorsement. The fact that the Attorney General has cast his lot with the two Senators is expected to be an important factor in the situation, since the President usually relies on the Department of Justice to make recommendations in filling appointments of the kind.

Meantime, word has been received from usually trustworthy sources that the President is prepared to give Mr. Andrews another judgeship appointment in the District of Columbia when a vacancy occurs. Neither Senator Russell nor Senator George has any objection to this and have so informed Department of Justice officials. During the time he served under a recess appointment before resigning after his nomination was defeated Judge Andrews made an excellent record on the bench which is said to have strongly commended him to the President for further judicial service.

Senator Russell at the next session will become Chairman of the great Armed Services Committee of the Senate. Between them, he and Senator George will sit at the head of two of the most important committees of the upper chamber. It is hardly conceivable under the circumstances that the President will turn down the joint recommendation of two such influential Party stalwarts in the matter of a Federal Judgeship which is customarily filled by the Senators from the State involved, where they are members of the Administration Party.

Harper Named Robert H. (Bob) Harper, of Milledgeville, present Chief Clerk of the House Armed Services Committee and long associated with Representative Carl Vinson, Chairman of the Committee, has been named as special assistant to Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, who will be Commander in Chief of the American Air Force to be sent to Germany under the command shortly to be given General Dwight Eisenhower.

Harper is at present a Brigadier General in the Air Corps Reserve and is planning to depart for Germany January 1 to take up his new duties. He will be granted a leave of absence by the House Committee during the period of his service. During the last war he entered the Air Force as a Lieutenant and rose to a Colonelcy before being mustered out after serving four years overseas. Later in 1949 he was promoted to Brigadier General in the Reserve. He will carry this rank with him on his new assignment.

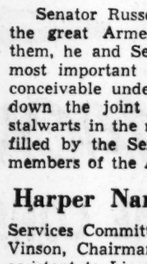

The Milledgeville man has been associated with Representative Vinson, Dean of the Georgia delegation in Congress, for some fifteen years, first on the old Naval Affairs Committee which Vinson headed and later on the consolidated Armed Services group. He is one of the most efficient and popular Congressional Committee attaches in Washington.

Remarks for the Record

ANALYSIS OF the entire contents of a recent 52-page newspaper shows nothing today is as it was in the old days except that Willie Hoppe is defending a cue title.

"IS THERE A live one in the crowd?" a form-player asks, as he offers to back Michigan by 13 points if the Rose Bowl classic is played in a blizzard.

Forgive Someone

The Editors: As we approach the Christmas season, I wish to pass along this timely sower of good will from the epigrams of Shamus O'Slattery:

"Give a Gift of Brotherhood this Christmas. Forgive Someone." LEM HUBBARD.

Chicago.

Shut-in at Christmas

The Editors: I would like to tell about a pre-Christmas episode on my ward here at Battey Hospital. On Tuesday the nurse called over the list of names of those who couldn't go home Christmas. That was bad enough. But Wednesday our doctor said anyone wanting to talk to him could come to his office, leaving the impression that we might get a leave.

But when I went in he said, "Sit down, what did you want to talk about?"

I told him I thought he was going to consider a leave for me. Smiling, he said: "No, I think you should stay here. Maybe next Christmas." That is all that was said. When I came back on the ward, two of the boys were almost in tears and myself, too. If that is his idea of a joke I can't see it. It, in my estimation, was about as mean and contemptible a trick as could be pulled. About as mean as a man putting a bottle of milk to a starving baby's mouth, then withdrawing it just for the fun of torturing it.

I hope no one else has my let-down sensation to spoil their Christmas. I know mine is spoiled and I can never have any more faith in this doctor. A PATIENT.

Battey State Hospital, Rome.

(Editor's Note: We fear the patient's own hopes led him to misinterpret the doctor's meaning. Certainly the doctor had no reason to deceive him, nor do we believe he had any intention of doing so. We hope the families and friends of those at Battey and other institutions will do everything they can to relieve the loneliness that becomes acute at this season for those who cannot go home for the holidays.)

Johnny's Show

The Editors: Re recent letters to The Constitution complaining of the poor musical fare and "inane chatter" offered by some Atlanta disc jockeys.

Reasons: Many DJ's do not have the musical training to select good music and cover the deficiency with poorly executed comedy. Records are picked in any haphazard manner or by "Hit Parade" lists,

However, all is not lost. In other cities listeners are more fortunate. Athenians, for example, have WGAU's music specialist Johnny Hutchinson. I heard him last year while at the University; again this weekend, and read about him in the October "Metronome."

Although a confirmed progressive, musically speaking, Johnny presents symphony, light classical, dance music and modern jazz programs with equal facility, his pleasant voice blending with whatever type show he is doing. His repertoire is excellent, and his ad lib comments on records and artists are interesting and informative. His secret? A wide knowledge of and long (15 years) association with the music business—experience which makes him one of the best authorities on popular and jazz music, discography, bands, musicians and vocalists in this area. And he is, incidentally, a fine newscaster.

Atlanta radio and TV stations would do well to hark to pleas for better music and obtain jockeys who really know music. When in Athens and I hear the familiar, "Your dial is set for Johnny's Show, music recorded," I know I'll hear a well-balanced and enjoyable program. Atlanta dial-twisters should be able to expect comparative enjoyment.

Look at Lane Case

The Editors: William Preston Lane, Jr., Democrat, ceases to be Governor of Maryland and makes way for Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican.

The sales tax is largely responsible for Lane's defeat. Reactionaries cheered when, four years ago, Lane came out for this iniquitous tax and, as one commentator put it, "stuffed it down the throats of the General Assembly."

That same commentator makes this wise observation: "Governor Lane's ouster was in the general trend of fate of all sales tax sponsors. One of the virtues of the tax is that it usually produces more than expected and practically no inaugurators of the levy ever have been able to win re-election."

Putting it another way: Advocates of the sales tax underestimate the revenue it will produce. This is to lull the voters to sleep. When the voters discover the truth, they do not always get rid of the tax, but they get rid of the men responsible.

The situation in this state is somewhat reversed, in that instead of the Governor preparing to stuff the sales tax down the throat of the General Assembly, Roy Harris and the General Assembly are preparing to stuff it down the throat of the Governor. A. P. ADDINGTON.

Queer Way of Showing He's Housebroken

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"If any man cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple."—(Luke 14:26.)

Out of a life of extraordinary spiritual attainment Meister Eckhart wrote: "Keep this in mind: To be full of things is to be empty of God."

He did not necessarily mean that just to sit empty-handed in mystic contemplation is the goal of life.

What is implied in that one's scale of values must be above material standards, mere physical satisfactions.

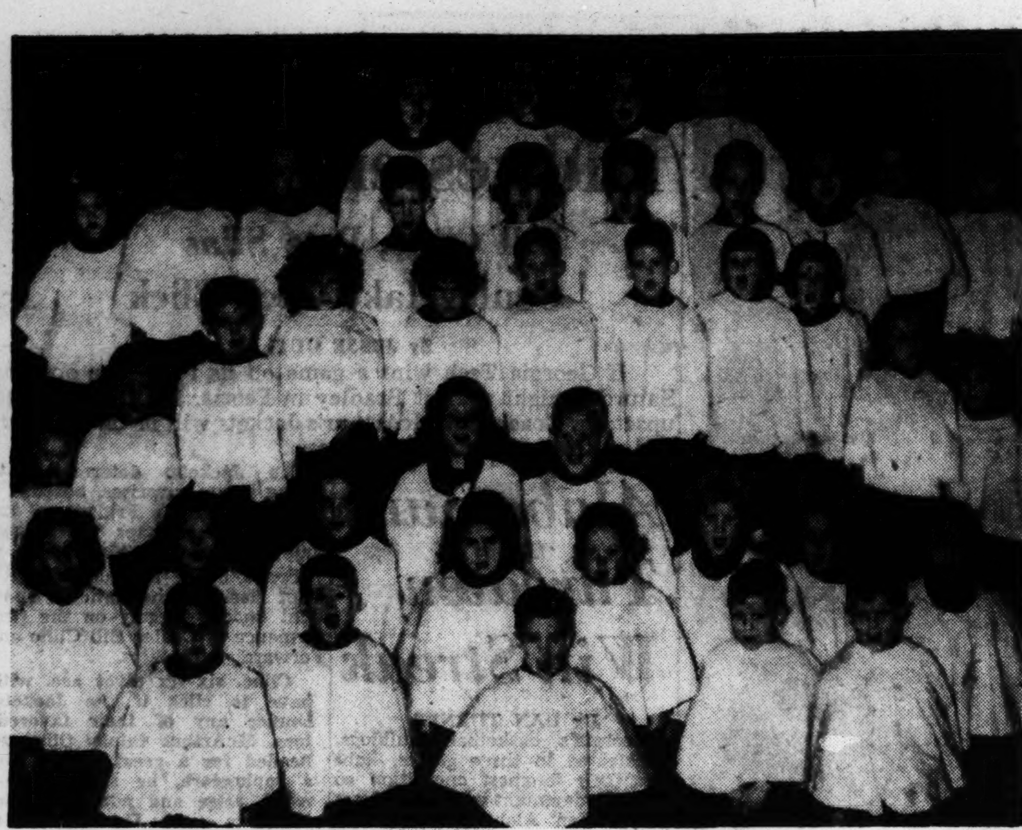

There is a place for meditation. But there is also a large place for occupied hands and hearts.

The balanced soul subjects all—substance and self—to magnifying Him who commands first place in the hearts of His own.

Have mercy upon us, O God, that we have sinned against Thee by thought, word, deed. Cleanse, redeem, restore—that we may worthily love and serve Thee.

Trippi's Bargaining Power Is Back Again

Spring was in the Athens air, or was it Summer? Anyway, it was hot on the mezzanine floor of the Holman Hotel. Made you peel your coat and mop your brow and wish that it were Winter so you remember how nice it was in Summer when it wasn't so cold.

Warm-hearted, however, was Charley Trippi, who sat on the convention chair and spoke languidly of football and the days that were and the days that had been. Yeah, he thought he would wind it up after one more season with the Chicago Cardinals. His contract had another year to run. Four years of the professional grade of football was about par for the course.

"After that, it begins to feel like work. Besides," he said, "I'm not sure the money is going to be as plentiful as it was before the leagues merged." (It was just after the All-America Monstrosity and the National League had rushed in to say last rites over their four-year foolishness.)

"When I signed with the Cardinals, I had a wedge. I could demand that much money and get it." (The Trippi price was reported at $25,000 per season.) "I can't see the National Leaguers putting out like they used to when they haven't got that All-America Conference hanging over their heads. At least I'm not expecting them to, and I'm not planning on playing any longer, figuring that they won't meet my price."

That was about eight months ago, at which time the soft-voiced Trippi was speaking as a man sold on his logic. He wasn't deep in remorse that he might be closing the doors on his great career. Rather, seemed that he might be right happy about coming back to alight in Athens. There'd always be a home for Trippi at Georgia, I'd heard, and the coaching staff was geared to accept him when he was ready.

Unemployment of a Nature

"It's not everything it's cracked up to be, anyway," he said, speaking of the game that loved him $100,000 worth. "I give up two months, at least, with my family while I'm in training. Then I have to move them out of a good home here to an apartment in Chicago, take them away from their friends and just break up the household for another four months.

"When I come back home, I'm out of a job the rest of the year. Technically, I'm out of a job. Of course, it's not hard to take for $25,000 a year, but it would get pretty hard to take for less. Besides, when you start moving around like that it costs money."

I find this week, though, evidence that Trippi may have reason to change his mind. The old bargaining wedge is gone, but there's a new one in its place. Desperate for a quarterback all season, the Cardinals sent their ace home to think about taking up a new career next Fall.

Cardinal officials made it definite this week that they plan to switch Trippi from halfback to quarterback next year. It now becomes a matter of whether Trippi wants to switch from Athens to Chicago again, and if the Cardinals wish to switch to his kind of cash for another year, or more.

He Was the Army's Air Wing

Trippi's quarterback experience has been limited to a brief fling this season. The Cards started out with Paul Christman, Frank Tripucka and Jim Hardy. Christman, aging and fattening, was traded off. Tripucka was hurt, and never has been what the Cards ordered from Notre Dame. Hardy is not the kind of quarterback you find on champions.

In pre-service days, and on the Third Air Force team, Trippi was the tailback in single wing combines. He came back from the war, went to halfback at Georgia and stuck to the trade as a pro. In four seasons, he carried the ball over 400 times for 2,054 yards, caught 108 passes for 1,189 yards, hauled 57 kickoffs 1,241 yards and averaged 40.6 yards punting. He hasn't thrown any passes, but the SEC and TAF records say that he can. Without throwing a lick, you can hardly say the gent hasn't earned his $25,000.

At a time like this, you hate the thought of a great athlete like Trippi going out of business. Of course, it's Trippi's business, and his aching back, and the Cardinals' $25,000. But if they don't mind, this is one meek voice crying out for a continuation of relations.

Tech Quintet Faces Midwestern Cagers

Bill Cline, Pete Silas Could Make Tech Click

By JESSE OUTLAR

If Georgia Tech wins a game on its road tour opening Saturday night against Bradley in Peoria, Ill., it will be an upset, for Coach Roy McArthur's Jackets will be on the short end of the odds in all six games.

The Jackets, determined to spring a few surprises, boarded a train for Peoria Friday on the first lap of perhaps the longest tour in Tech cage history.

Tech's hopes for sucess and a brief flash in the national spotlight depend largely on the performance of Center Bill Cline and Forward Pete Silas.

Cline, six-six pivot ace, will have to click if the Jackets bounce any of their favored foes. McArthur thinks Cline is headed for a great season. As a sophomore, he showed unusual poise and added finesse in every game. He scored 244 points in living up to press clippings as an all-Stater at Boyden high in Salisbury, N. C.

Silas, touted as one of the finest prospects ever to attend Tech, is being counted on to supply much of the Jacket scoring punch. Like Cline, he stands six-six and earned all-State recognition at Miami Senior high. Only drawback, of course, is that Silas is a sophomore and may not be ready to compete with such polished performers as Tech will encounter on this trip.

McArthur will open with the same five which got the call against Furman in last week's breather. Joe Keener joins Silas at forward, Cline will be at center and Mickey Sermersheim and Teeter Umstead will man the guard posts.

Mel Dold, who has a chance to become the highest scorer in Tech annals, probably will break into the starting lineup before the Jackets reach the coast. He got a late start due to football.

Dold needs 276 points this year to break Jim Nolan's all-time mark of 1,136 established in 1946-49. The former Flora, Ill., all-Stater led Jacket point-makers with 299 markers last year and is perhaps the most underrated player on the squad.

After the Bradley game, Tech shifts to Louisville for a single game Monday. A brief break for Christmas follows, then on to California. San Francisco U. is the first coast opponent, Dec. 28, California follows at the Cow Palace Dec. 29. A final game with California at Berkley Dec. 30 and a one-night stand against Rice at Houston Jan. 2, winds up the tour.

Traveling roster: Mel Dold, Joe Keener, Mickey Sermersheim, Teeter Umstead, Bill Cline, Jim Fritch, Pete Silas, Mike Austin, Barry Blemker, Benny Register, Coach McArthur and Manager Charles Radford.

Alabamans Threaten Win Streak

By DAN TURNER

Georgia's basketball Bulldogs, undefeated in three games, light into their toughest opposition so far Saturday night when they meet once-beaten Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

The Bulldogs looked impressive in their first start by besting a not-so-strong Mercer, 87-50. After that came a close shave with South Carolina, 60-58, and then Thursday night's 58-45 victory over Clemson.

Despite Georgia's winning ways and Alabama's loss to Ole Miss, the Tide rates a slight edge. 'Bama had beaten Mississippi Southern and Florida Teachers before falling before the Rebels.

The point average for the three games both teams have played stacks up like this: Georgia has average 68.3 while holding its opponents to a medium of 51. Alabama has exactly the same point average as Georgia, but the Tide has allowed an average of 58.3 points. Averages notwithstanding, the pickers favor the Tide by about five.

Saturday night's contest could turn into an under-the-basket duel between Bob (Slim) Schloss, Georgia's 6-8 center, and 'Bama's star forward, Sammy Moore. Moore is three inches shorter than Schloss, but he is noted for his ability with the rebounds.

Georgia will also be depending heavily on the talents of Joe Jordan at guard, Earl Davis and E. L. Shain at the forwards. Jim Umbricht will probably start at the other guard post.

Elsewhere in the SEC, LSU takes on Ole Miss at Oxford in what should be a touch-and-go affair. The two teams meet after facing tough opponents Friday night in Mississippi State and Tulane, respectively. Also Saturday night, Tulane meets LSU's Friday night foe, Mississippi State.

Florida moves down to Tennessee after being blasted by Kentucky Thursday night. Kentucky and Bill Spivey meet Kansas and Jim Lovelette at Lexington; Vandy and Auburn take the night off.

Williams AL's Top Slugger

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(AP)—Boston's Ted Williams batted only .317 last season, but still repeated as the American League's "slugging" champion with a .647 percentage on 216 total bases in 334 trips to the plate.

Ted Williams

Official statistics released Friday also certified 13 new league records, topped by a loop aggregate of 973 home runs, 90 more than the former mark of 883 set in 1940. In all, 67 major and league records were bettered or matched during the junior circuit's 1950 campaign.

For the second straight year, Boston's Vern Stephens shared in the runs-batted-in championship. Stephens and Red Sox team-mate Walt Dropo each drove across 144 runs last season. In 1949, Stephens and Williams tied for the honor at 159.

A total of 11 players hammered across more than 100 runs in 1950, six more than the previous year. Eddie Yost, Washington, drew the most bases on balls, 141; Gus Zernial, Chicago, struck out most, 110 times; and Philadelphia's Bill Hitchcock drove into 30 double plays.

An array of 22 new major league marks was written into the books after Boston's 20-4 win over St. Louis June 7 and the Red Sox' 29-4 trouncing of the Browns the next day.

Sixteen players belted 20 or more homers, equalling a major league record.

Ted Williams Now 'Fish Pro'

BRISTOL, Conn., Dec. 15—(AP) The signing of Ted Williams, the noted baseballer, to a long-term contract as a consultant to a manufacturer of fishing equipment, was announced here Friday.

The new job as a so-called "fish professional" will not interfere with the hard-hitting Boston Red Sox outfielder's baseball career, it was emphasized by Williams and President Graham Treadway of the local company.

But, it was stressed that Ted signed with an eye to the future —"Say in five years or so when he checks out of baseball as a player."

Williams, whose bat earns him baseball's fattest salary check today, is well known among fishermen not only as a proficient fly and bait caster, but as a technical expert in the design of equipment.

Specifically, explained Treadway, Williams, the American League's most valuable player in 1946 and 1949, will assist here in the design of tackles, the testing of Bristol Morton products, and help in promoting the company's conservation and youth programs.

TAKES CLASS B CROWN

West Point Blasts Big Jesup, 34-12

By JACK JACKSON

ALBANY, Dec. 15—The little school with the big football team has done it again.

West Point's undefeated Red Devils, representing Georgia's third smallest gridiron school, blasted Jesup, 34-12, before 3,500 chilled fans Friday night at Municipal Stadium to annex their second state class B football title in three seasons.

When delirious Devil fans and players hauled their coach, Carlton Lewis, off the field at the game's end, it marked the 41st time in four years that the Georgia Tech product has seen his team come off a winner. Only on four occasions has a Lewis-coached West Point eleven been beaten.

Too, the victory gave North Georgia a 3-1 edge in state championships, a distinction it never before held.

Larry Ruffin, West Point's all-state tailback, turned in one of the best games of his career, despite a painful back injury suffered in practice. But he was forced to share plaudits with folks like Claude Kinsey, Ray Anderson, Rannie Smith and Buck Borders and with a determined line which started as second best but finished on top.

Jesup, which had trampled Dawson at this same site a week ago for the South Georgia title, made a battle of it for a little better than a quarter. Lavonne Counts, a fine runner and Dean Madray, the passer and guiding hand of the team, brought their club from behind late in the first period and for a brief spell held the upper hand, but the spell was just that—brief.

Unloading an infrequent but deadly passing attack the Devils pulled to a 20-6 halftime lead and added 14 more points in the third quarter. Then reserves took over, playing out the game and giving up a second score to Jesup.

West Point tried seven passes. Six were completed for 199 yards and two touchdowns. Sophomore Smith and Junior Anderson did the throwing. Ruffin, Borders and Anderson did the running and the line did the rest.

On the second play of the game, Ken Hope, of Jesup, fumbled and a host of West Pointers recovered at the Jackets 30. Ruffin and Anderson ran to the 12 and from there Borders went over on a reverse.

Jesup struck back, driving 80 yards with Counts, Madray and Hope doing most of the work. Madray finally passed 16 yards to Hope for the score.

Early in the second period, Ruffin intercepted a Madray pass and the Devils were off. They lost five yards on two running attempts, but on third down Smith entered the game and pitched 54 yards to Ruffin for the touchdown.

A moment later, Ruffin again intercepted a Madray pass and returned it 31 yards to the Jackets 38. A penalty set West Point back to the Jesup 47, but from there Anderson passed to Dickie Scott.

Taking the third period kickoff, the Devils drove 60 yards to score again. Borders made it on a reverse, this one good for 16. Jesup moved to its 48 but lost the ball on downs. Ruffin and Smith with a Smith to Ruffin pass helping, carried to the 15 and Borders reversed his way to the one. Kinsey bucked across.

Jesup's last score came against Devil second stringers on an 81-yard drive, Madray passed the final 22 to Fred Horton.

Lanier's Whitten To Enter Georgia

Two more Georgia prep stars signed grants-in-aid Friday. Richard "Red" Whitten, who led Lanier's Poets to the Region 1AA crown, selected Georgia, and Jake Fleming, Valdosta halfback, picked Vanderbilt.

Whitten, selected on The Journal - Constitution All-State eleven, was one of the most widely sought backs in Georgia. He was offered free education by at least five institutions.

Fleming, a standout on Wright Bazemore's South Georgia class A championship team, was named on The Journal - Constitution All-State team in his division.

Committee Expects No Simple Job

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(AP)—The four-man committee shopping for a successor to A. B. Chandler as Baseball Commissioner does not expect it to be a speedy or simple job.

So says P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, a member of the committee which also includes Lou Perini of the Boston Braves; Del Webb of the New York Yankees; and Ellis Ryan of the Cleveland Indians.

Chandler's contract with the major leagues expires May 1, 1952.

Wrigley said in an interview Friday the group hasn't set any date for a meeting, and he stressed that it will not make a specific recommendation.

"We merely screen the field of men we feel are suitable and obtain as much information about them as possible.

"We turn all this information over to the club owners, who make the final decision.

"I would say that the orderly way to look at it is this—divide the field into various classifications, such as judicial, military, political and baseball, for example, then study each one."

Wrigley said he didn't know how long the committee's canvass would take, adding jokingly: "'It could be that we'd spend two years collecting data on various candidates and then have the owners disregard our reports entirely and select some one we hadn't considered."

Tulane Tops Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss., Dec. 15—(AP)—Tulane University used the first seven minutes of the second half to build a 10-point lead and held that margin to defeat the University of Mississippi 76-62 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game here Friday night.

The score was tied five times in the first half and the lead changed hands seven times.

Player Marion's Fate Hanging on Operation

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15—(UP)—Marty Marion, the St. Louis Cardinals' new player-manager, said Friday he will enter a hospital Sunday for an operation which might save his baseball playing career.

The slim shortstop, who was appointed manager to succeed Eddie Dyer last month, has been an ailing ball player for several seasons. His physicians, Drs. I. C. Middleman and E. L. Keyes, told him he needs an operation on his right knee to preserve his playing prowess.

Marty Marion

The doctors plan to remove a cartilage from the right knee.

"They said that if it's not done, I will will continue to be bothered by a badly swollen knee which might become arthritic," Marion said.

"They want me to walk around almost immediately after the operation and take diathermy and whirlpool baths. I expect to be in the hospital less than a week."

Marty is quite confident. "I am looking forward to playing full time at shortstop in '51," he said.

But Manager Marion has his plans all set in the event that player Marion cannot make the grade this season, when the Cards launch their comeback after a fifth-place finish in 1950.

"Red Schoendienst can play shortstop, and play it mighty well," Marion said. "So he's our man."

But Marion doesn't think his team is all prepared for the new campaign. He is concerned about the fact that too many of the Cards are left-handed hitters; he wants a right-hander.

"I talked deal with Billy Southworth, Manager of the Boston Braves," Marion said. "I wanted Bob Elliot. But I think he wanted a little too much for him.

"However, I haven't given up. I expect to make Billy a new offer soon."

Hill Prince Heavy Choice

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Dec. 15—(AP)—Hill- Prince Friday was picked as a heavy favorite to win the $50,000 Sunset Handicap but a pair of handsome filly queens may give the Virginia colt a run in a race that lost most of its appeal when four worthy eligibles withdrew.

All told, an even dozen thoroughbreds were entered Friday for the mile and one-eighth closing day attraction at Hollywood Park.

The filly stars, Pride of the Alfred G. Vanderbilt racing stable, are Next Move, who has been named the "three-year-old filly of the year," and Bed O' Roses, whom many contend is as great or greater than Next Move.

Rounding out the field will be the strong Calumet team of Bewitch and Theory, Argentine-bred Repeluz, and Blue Reading, Great Circle, Last Round, Vino Fino, Mocopo and Pedigree.

Any chance of a re-run of last week's $100,000 Gold Cup collapsed when the cup winner, Noor, was retired from the turf, and Palestinian, Ponder and Your Host decided to skip the Sunset and point for Santa Anita's rich meeting which opens Dec. 29.

Bryant Not After Post

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 15—(AP). Paul Bryant, football coach at the University of Kentucky, conferred Friday with University of Minnesota officials about the football coaching job at Minnesota.

After meeting with President James Morrill and Ike Armstrong, athletic director, Bryant said he was not in Minneapolis seeking the job as successor to Bernie Bierman who resigned recently. He said he came on the invitation of the university to talk things over.

Bryant said at a press conference afterwards that he would not under any circumstances break his present contract with Kentucky.

Bryant will leave Minneapolis Saturday by plane.

Another candidate for the Gopher coaching job will be interviewed Saturday. He is Harold (Shorty) Almquist, Gopher quarterback on the 1925, 1926, and 1927 teams.

Almquist now is coach at Rock Island, Ill., High School where he has established an outstanding record, similar to that he previously marked up at Augustana College in Rock Island.

He is a native of Minneapolis.

Giles Doesn't Want Job; Says Give Help to Happy

CINCINNATI, Dec. 15—(AP)—Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds, declared Friday night he would not be a candidate for appointment as baseball commissioner. And he added:

"(A. B.) Chandler is still baseball commissioner and will have my full support while he is, just as he has had my support in the past." Giles declared baseball's commissioner should have "support and encouragement, not opposition."

Giles issued his prepared statement on his return here from St. Petersburg, Fla., where Chandler failed to musier sufficient votes of the club owners for a renewal of his contract.

Giles immediately was one of those mentioned as possible successor to Chandler.

The statement issued by the Reds' president said:

"Some baseball officials in both major leagues have suggested to me that I be a candidate. My reply and my position now is that I definitely am not a candidate in any sense of the word.

"Chandler is still baseball commissioner and will have my full support while he is, just as he has had my support in the past. With serious problems facing baseball, the commissioner should have support and encouragement, not opposition."

It was generally understood at St. Petersburg that Giles was one of the club heads who supported Chandler for reappointment.

Jim Turnesa Leads Havana With 134

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 15—(AP) Jim Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N. Y., took the lead Friday in the second day's play of Havana's 72-hole invitation golf tournament. His five-under-par 67—his second in two days—gave him a 134 to head the field at the halfway mark.

Tied for second, at 136, were Toney Penna, of Cincinnati, top man on opening day, and Lew Worsham, of Oakmont, Pa.

Penna had a 66 Thursday but took a 70 Friday, while Worsham had 67 to add to Thursday's 69.

Jack Burke, of Houston, had a 66, but his 71 Thursday gave him 137.

Pete Cooper, of Ponte Vedra, Fla., had 68-70 for 138, as did Henry Ransom, of St. Andrews, Ill.

E. J. Harrison, St. Andrews, Ill., 67-72; Ed Oliver, of Seattle, 70-69; Marty Furgol, of North Hollywood, Calif., 72-67, and Dave Douglas, of Newark, Delaware, 68-71, were in the 139 group.

Next with 140's were Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans; Al Brosch, Garden City, L. I., N. Y.; Jim Demaret, Ojai, Calif; Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C.; Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and Rufino Gonzalez, pro of the host Havana Country Club.

Ted Kroll, of New Hartford, N. Y., had 140.

Grouped at 142 were Glenn Teal, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md.; Bud Lewis, Havana, and Bob Toski, Northampton, Mass.

Ed Furgol, of Royal Oaks, Mich., and Dick Mayer, Old Greenwich, Conn., had 144.

Clayton Heafner, of Charlotte, N. C., had 145; Joe Kirkwood, Jr., of Hollywood, Calif., and Vic Ghezzi, of Inwood, N. Y., 147, and Chick Harbert, of Detroit, had another 76 Friday to be last with 152.

Additional rounds of 18 holes each will be played Saturday and Sunday.

DODD HELPING WITH ONE

Gustafson Sees No Trouble in Two Bowl Games

By E. V. W. JONES

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15—(AP). Coach Andy Gustafson doesn't think he will have any trouble getting two football teams into trim simultaneously for two bowl games a week apart.

This makes him top candidate for the "Iron Coach" title, but Smiling Gus doesn't mind.

He has guided his University of Miami squad through an unbeaten, once-tied season. Now his assignments are:

To whip 29 college all-stars into a smoothly-functioning South team which will meet the North squad, coached by Herman Hickman of Yale, in the Shrine charity game here Christmas night.

To drill his own Miami Hurricanes for the Orange Bowl classic against Clemson on New Year's Day.

His All-Stars report Sunday and begin practice Monday. Gus plans two workouts daily for them, the first at 10 a. m., the second about 4 p. m. In between times, all next week, he will preside over a workout by his Hurricanes starting at 2:30 daily.

"I won't be overburdened coaching two teams at one time," said the confident Gustafson. "We'll have Bobby Dodd and Ray Graves of Georgia Tech to help in the work with the Shrine team.

"For the Shrine team I plan to combine the Miami and Georgia Tech attacks. The combination will give a lot of flying trapeze and solo plays along with the regular "T" attack. I won't work the Hurricanes against the All Stars in practice. Both will use the "T" formation and there's no point in it."

He says he will have a full week to devote to his own Orange Bowl team after the Shrine charity game "and that last week will count."

Would Clemson learn any secrets by watching the Christmas night game?

"No," said Gus. "It might confuse them. We'll be glad to see them there."

Gus would have had 30 players in his South squad except for dropping Dave Bannerman of Navy. The star fullback is being honorably discharged from the Naval Academy at Annapolis because he got married.

"I had no choice but to drop him since each player must represent a school," Gus commented. "I hate to lose him. I wish him every happiness."

Both North and South squads were at full strength Friday, and Gustafson may not name a replacement for Bannerman.

The complete rosters:

North team:

Ends—Herbert Agoos, Pennsylvania; Hank Minarik, Michigan State; Alan Pfeiffer, Fordham; Don McLean, Columbia; Dick Wacker, Rutgers; Tom Bieneman, Drake.

South team:

Ends—Jerry Deluca, The Citadel; Bill Stribling, Mississippi; Gene Ackerman, Missouri; Elmer Wingate, Maryland; Tom Bakke, Navy; Bob McDonald, Navy.

Mildred's $14,800 Tops Women Pros

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

Mildred (Babe) Didrickson Zaharias, who won six major golf tournaments during the year, earned an unprecedented $14,800 in prize money.

This report came from Fred Corcoran, Women's PGA tournament director, who listed the top women pros from standpoint of earnings. Mrs. Zaharias was followed by Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, and Louise Suggs, of Atlanta.

Duquesnes' basketball coach, "Dudey" Moore, faced with the loss of his five key men, has copied football's two platoon system and it's paying off. Moore uses 10 new players to fashion a one-two punch which has netted the Dukes four straight victories.

"It's ridiculous," said the Cleveland Browns Coach Paul Brown when bettors posted his outfit as seven-point favorites over the New York Giants in the playoff game Sunday. "Why the Giants have beat us the other two times we played. I thought for once we'd be the underdogs and the players feel like the underdogs."

Bobby Barnes, Cocoa, Fla., halfback, not only led the Orange Belt Conference by scoring 90 points in six games this year, but has been named top player by the coaches in the seven-team circuit. He was a unanimous choice.

Andy Gustafson, of Miami, called Clemson the Hurricanes' toughest opponent of the year as they got down to their first preparatory scrimmage for the Orange Bowl. Three minor casualties occurred. Elmer Tremont and Leo Martin went to the showers early with knee injuries and Dick Erickson, third string flankman, suffered a fractured finger.

Oklahoma's Sooners could set a new record at New Orleans Jan. 1 that could stand as long as the Sugar Bowl stadium. In the bowl's 16-year history, no team has won three successive victories. In 1949, North Carolina fell before Coach Bud Wilkinson's crew, 14-6, and LSU was on the short end of a 35-0 score this year.

America has more white-tailed deer today than back in Pilgrim times and probably more ruffed grouse, squirrels, bear and foxes, according to Albert M. Day, Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the US Department of the Interior.

Harold Russell, National Commander of Amvets Friday leveled his sights on some major league baseball owners and called the ouster of A. B. Chandler a "shameful and ill-considered action." Russell spoke at Washington in backing a move by the Senators' Clark Griffith to renew Happy's contract.

University of Arkansas Coach William Ferrell thinks baseball should reinstate its high school rule and also leave college players alone. "As it stands now," said Ferrell, "a coach is in the terrible position of knowing the only players he can count on are his poorest."

Ferrell's assistant, Dick Humbert, reportedly is being considered for the head coaching job at his alma mater, Richmond, Va. Humbert, ranked as one of Richmond's greatest ends, said at Fayetteville, Ark., that he had not been contacted about the post.

Jockey Joe Culmone won two races Friday at Tropical Park while his rival for national riding honors, Willie Shoemaker, was winning only at Hollywood Park. Culmone now leads in firsts, 369-356.

Rains Caused California Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf to decide to hold further practices at the Golden Bears' "Winter camp" at San Bernardino. California meets Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

Ed Warner, CCNY's sensational center, will use crutches for several days to favor his right leg. He suffered a "sprain or tear" in his knee Thursday night when his team downed Washington State.

Basis (Buzz) Fazio, captain of the powerful Detroit Strohs, took the lead in the national individual match game bowling championships in Chicago Friday, rolling the third perfect 300 game in the history of the tournament.

A group in Mayfield, Ky., started "a corner drug store" petition Friday to retain A. B. Chandler as Baseball Commissioner. The group, headed by Jess Anderson, editor of the Mayfield Messenger, hopes to get millions of signatures in corner drug stores all over the nation.

Georgia's Feher Marries Saturady

ATHENS, Dec. 15—Nick Feher, Georgia's first string offensive guard for the past two seasons, will wed Miss Sandy Moreland here Saturday at the St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Poole's Out, But Owen Confident About Mote

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(AP)—Memo to the Cleveland Brown football players:

If you are planning to sweep the New York Giants ends Sunday because Flanker Ray Poole is out with a fractured ankle, just forget it.

Kelley Mote, one-time Duke great, is back in shape and has done so well in practice that Coach Steve Owen says "Sure, Poole's injury was a blow but with Mote around it doesn't figure to be a damaging one. In fact, I'm not at all worried. I really hope the Browns try to run around this guy."

The Browns and Giants met twice during the National Football League season with the New Yorkers taking both and Poole a hero in both. Sunday the two tangle again in a playoff for the American Conference title at Cleveland.

Poole suffered his injury in last Sunday's contest with the Philadelphia Eagles. Mote will replace him as defensive right end with Randy Clay, rookie from Texas, inheriting Poole's field goal and kickoff duties. It was Clay's first field goal ever that brought the Giants a victory in Philadelphia and sent them into the playoff with the Browns.

Mote suffered a shoulder separation in mid-season and was used on both offense and defense upon his return. When Poole was hurt, Owen shifted Mote to defense.

"I have liked him ever since I saw him play for Duke against Army in the Polo Grounds a couple of years ago," Owen said. "He always was good against us the two years he played for Detroit."

The Giants got Mote from Detroit at the start of the season, trading their rights to Ollie Cline, one-time Ohio State fullback, for him.

After a brief rehearsal of plays Friday, the Giants spent some time studying moving pictures of their previous games with the Browns. They left Friday night for Cleveland and will work out there Saturday.

While the Browns and Giants are blocking and tackling at Cleveland, the Chicago Bears and the Los Angeles Rams will be mixing it up in California for the National Conference laurels. The two winners meet Dec. 24 in either New York or Cleveland for the pro crown.

Robinson Packs Swiss Appeal

GENEVA, Dec. 15—(AP)—A crowd of several hundred fight fans forced their way into the Pavillon des Sports Friday in an effort to get a glimpse of Ray (Sugar) Robinson, World Welterweight Champion, working out for his non-title ten-rounder Saturday night with Jean Walzack of France.

The crowd was angered because the management of the sports hall cancelled a previously announced public training session of the champion "for technical and security reasons."

When Robinson arrived at the arena with his manager, George Gainford, and trainers, the spectators pushed their way past the doormen and a police guard and entered the building. Police expelled all of the fans, however, before Robinson had time to get into the ring.

General Tendencies—Watch out today, folks, because the signals are up for a series of minor disagreements, accidents or other conditions bound to upset any plans for a quiet and peaceful time. The evening would ordinarily be given over to dates but this week seems to show sudden changes for you at the last moment, most of which will not set well. Don't be foolish and throw over congenial friends just to go out with those who have more money.

If It's Your Birthday—Like other people born in the middle of December, you seem to find the Spring of 1951 a rather disturbing time. I think your main difficulty will be connected with health, although you also may dislike financial conditions—watch out for late March and early April. When you are past this rough spot you will probably do pretty well, particularly if you settle down to practical work along the lines which you already know. Don't start anything new.

New Source of Labor Planned for Georgia

By BILL BORING

The federal Government is readying a plan aimed at tapping a brand-new source of labor in Georgia.

Target of the plan is the enrollment in the big defense program planned for this State of at least 150,000 persons who normally do not work.

Constitution Staff Photo—Floyd Jillson

Already this defense job includes a vastly stepped-up textile production, a projected reopening of the Bell Bomber plant at Marietta, and full operations at Warner Robins and the Naval Ordnance plant at Macon, the Atlanta General Depot and other defense establishments throughout the state.

In addition, the Army is seriously considering Atlanta as site of a $11,000,000 Quartermaster Reseach Laboratory and the Marines have Albany in mind for a $25,000,000 supply depot.

Dr. M. D. Mobley, head of the State Department of Vocational Education, has just returned from Washington where he conferred with officials of the National Security Resources Board and the U. S. Education Department regarding manpower plans as they affect Georgia and the nation.

As in World War II, the vocational schools will be assigned the task of training the army of industrial recruits. In the last war, Georgia's vocational schools equipped 112,000 persons with war plant skills, Dr. Mobley said.

For this mobilization, the job will be bigger. Dr. Mobley said women will have to make up the biggest part of our new labor force since most men—and a good many of the women—already are at work.

In the face of an already full-employment situation, and an employment figure already surpassing that of the peak World War II period, it is evident that some arrangement will have to be worked out whereby more women will go to work.

Housewives who never dreamed of commercial work and young women similarly minded may be in factories before many months pass, persons close to the manpower situation point out.

Dr. Mobley said the Georgia vocational school plant is built up to where it can begin training defense workers immediately. There will have to be some retooling of machinery to meet "Jet Age" requirements, but in plant and staff things are in good shape, he said.

The Federal Bureau of Budget is now working on a money outlay that would encompass the training of 11,000,000 workers nationally, including Georgia's.

In World War II, which set the general pattern for the present mobilization, the manpower quotas were met, the office of Ben T. Huiet, State Commissioner of Labor reported, by shifting workers from factory to factory, town to town, factory to farm, and vice versa.

As in that war, city folk will have to pitch in to help pick cotton and tend other crops in emergency agricultural periods. On the other hand, in slack farm times, rural laborers will be drafted temporarily by the factories.

Huiet said some outside labor had to be drawn into the State during World War II, but generally speaking the factories were locally supplied.

He said that currently the farm labor situation is in good shape. As in World War II, he expects farm production to be maintained through more use of machinery and periodic borrowings of urban labor.

State Faces Tax Battle By Business

Increase Opposed In Income Levy

Gov. Talmadge may be headed for a showdown with "big business" on an income tax plan at the January session of the Legislature.

A top administration source said Friday the Governor will stand pat on his insistence that income taxes go up on the corporations and the more wealthy individuals in co-ordination with the proposed 3 per cent sales tax which hits the poorer Georgians the hardest.

Simultaneously, a former legislator predicted some "big corporations" will be able to exert sufficient influence to block any increase in state income taxes.

An administration source, who declined use of his name, said the Governor can be expected to propose disallowing Federal income tax deductions from state income tax payments. He said the Chief Executive felt this would be good for business even if additional state revenue was not needed. It would be better to lower the rates and disallow deductions, than to advertise Georgia nationally as a high income tax state, he reasoned.

The spokesman said some corporations paying hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Federal Government are being exempt from state taxes because of these deductions. By reversing the procedure, the Federal Government would bear the cost of part of this state tax increase, he added.

Milk Board May Invoke Price Curbs

Chairman Charles Duncan said Friday the State Milk Control Board may consider clamping ceiling prices on milk for the first time in its history.

Duncan commented after milk distributors and producers in the Savannah and Brunswick areas announced a price increase on their own initiative amid indications of a state-wide milk price rise.

Effective Saturday, prices in Savannah and Brunswick will advance from 25 cents per quart, the minimum fixed by the board, to 27 cents. Milk farmers at the same time will raise bulk prices from $7 per hundred pounds to $7.46.

Both raises are possible under Board orders fixing only minimum prices, but these prices usually have been observed in the industry.

Duncan said the Board may be asked to investigate the Savannah-Brunswick increases to determine if they are justified.

If the Board should find the prices were not warranted, it could order prices back down.

The Director observed, however, that recent freezes have killed pasture crops throughout the State and the cost of feeding dairy herds is rising rapidly.

This situation, on top of an existing shortage of milk, could lead to the fixing of milk price ceilings throughout the State to prevent excessive price rises, said Duncan.

Alex Fund Shy $136,775; Drive Goes Through January

A flood of contributions Friday pushed the William A. Alexander Memorial Fund Campaign to within $136,775 of its $1,500,000 goal as officials announced the drive will be extended through January.

Campaign workers reported another $231,231 in donations Friday, swelling total contributions to $1,336,225.

Announcing extension of the campaign, Georgia Tech President Blake R. Van Leer said he felt that, if the current campaign had lasted two more weeks, the goal would have been attained.

Van Leer said that many persons and several corporations have indicated a desire to contribute to the fund, which will be used to build a physical training center at Tech in honor of the late Coach Alexander.

He added he believed delayed contributions after Jan. 1 will put the drive over the top. After that, Van Leer said, construction of the Alexander Memorial Building will begin "as soon as practical."

General Fund Chairman Robert MacDougall presided over the Friday report session, which saw Section D of Division 3, headed by S. N. Hodges, earn a "double Yellow Jacket" when it reported a total of $23,000 in collected donations.

COUNTY AFFAIRS

Tuesday Tax Deadline For Fulton

Fulton taxpayers have only until next Tuesday, Dec. 19, to settle their debts with the County.

Taxes may be paid either directly at the Fulton County Court House or through the mail, according to Tax Collector T. Earl Suttles. If sent by mail the postmark should be dated before midnight, Dec. 19.

More than 120,000 tax notices were mailed out to citizens on Oct. 1, Suttles said, and of that number about 50,000 have been settled.

Mail bearing County taxes is already becoming heavy in the tax collector's office, and is expected to get heavier right up to the final deadline.

According to law, fi fas must be issued Dec. 20 against property delinquent in taxes, and owners must pay a penalty to clear their records.

Farewell to Judge

Judge Robert Carpenter was honored Friday night when Judges and members of the Civil Court of Fulton County gave him a farewell dinner. The dinner was held for the retiring Judge at Hewitt Chambers' lodge on Mount Vernon Road.

Drygoods

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Friday with mills reluctant to make contracts until after President Truman's address to the nation Friday night and some better indications on the question of price controls. Buyers continued to seek goods actively for the first half of next year, particularly in print cloths and sheetings, but sales were limited. The large government procurement program in cotton cloth was expected to squeeze supplies for civilian use. Mills believed that the overall defense needs in cotton goods will be a good deal larger than figures projected by the Defense department earlier this week.

Wool goods held firm. Merchants anticipated further tightening in supplies, due to increasing military orders for woolens and worsteds.

Prompting Device Soothes TV Actors

By PAUL JONES

The bugaboo of any actor—the fear of forgetting his lines—has been solved on teevee, which until now left performers in an awful lurch standing there before all revealing cameras, not a promptor in sight.

This, we think, has been responsible for uneasiness on the part of many top "names" in video. Fear of losing dialogue right in the midst of a show certainly has slowed down Arthur Godfrey's delivery—and he, on numerous occasions, has resorted to reading whole sentences of dialogue rather than fumble the words all over the place.

Monty Woolley

The new gadget, an electronic prompter, was invented, according to the New York Times, by a member of the cast of "Mr. Roberts." It already has saved five persons whose minds went completely blank during the telecast of CBS's soap opera, "First 100 Years," the Times said.

It is a simple, yet costly device, which unfolds the script on a scroll, or wide sheet of paper which is wound onto a spool out of camera range. The script is printed in letters about an inch high, clearly visible from eight to 10 feet distant. The device can carry enough script for a full hour show and its speed can be regulated to the speed of anyone's voice.

Qualms over appearing on stage without the reassuring presence of a prompter caused Monty Woolley to remark after a recent appearance on video that he dreaded a return engagement. It is no secret that many of the top stars in Hollywood have not been able to appear on teevee because they forget their lines right in the midst of the action.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Rosetta Moore, who died one year ago, Dec. 16, 1949.

The month of December is here,
The saddest month of the year.
God called her home, it was His will.
But in our heart she liveth still.
There is no reason for us to moan
Our Darling Mother, God called her home.
Sadly missed by her children.

State Patrol Forced Over Its Income

Expansion of the State Patrol and granting of free drivers' licenses to veterans has caused the Department of Public Safety—once almost self-financing agency—to have to dip into the general State treasury for half of its operating costs, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., reported Friday.

Indications are Gov. Talmadge, who this week added free licenses to Korean war veterans, will ask the Legislature to enlarge the State Patrol for an intensified campaign to make Georgia's highways safe. There are no indications that the price of drivers' licenses will be increased.

The annual audit, made public Friday, showed $812,866.30 received from the issuance of drivers' licenses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950. Operation cost of the department was $1,771,372.89. The department was almost self-financing in 1946 and 1947 when there were only 280 employees and no free drivers' licenses. There were 391 employees for the closing fiscal year.

Noting the theft of $4,769.25 from the Tifton Patrol Station June 22, 1950, Thrasher said the stations should deposit funds in the bank daily so large sums would not be held in the stations. He also called for reports more regularly during license renewal season. (Preston Holden, drivers' license examiner, has been suspended from the department and placed under $10,000 bond on charges of larceny in connection with the Tifton theft.)

In two other audits released Friday, Thrasher said the State spent more money per patient and took care of more patients at Milledgeville State Hospital and Battey State Hospital during the past fiscal year.

The State spent $1.46 per patient at Milledgeville mental hospital, compared with $1.09 in 1949 and $1.01 in 1948. This was exclusive of outlay. It took care of 1,519 patients, compared with 1,236 in 1949 and 1,134 in 1948. Total operating costs, including cost of constructing new buildings, was $6,222,085.68, compared with $4,655,582.68 in 1949 and $3,937,132.73 in 1948.

At the Battey Tuberculosis Hospital, the State spent $5.61 per patient, compared with $4.25 in 1949 and $4.19 in 1948. There were an average of 1,440.1 patients at Battey each day, compared with 1,339.9 in 1949 and 1,951.1 in 1948. Operating costs, including improvements, totaled $2,712,383.51, compared with $2,220,817.46 in 1949 and $1,951,428 in 1948.

Bomb or Firecracker Stirs Neighborhood

Residents of West Lake Ave., N. W., were still wondering Friday what caused a loud explosion and a bright light in the neighborhood Thursday night.

The blast seemed to originate near the residence of W. M. Glover at 279 West Lake. Glover said he had been deluged with phone calls from neighbors seeking an explanation. "It sounded like a bomb," he said, "but I don't know what it could have been except maybe a large firecracker, the likes of which I never heard before."

$1,791,639 Port Work Approved

As the initial step in the $5,000,000 program for the improvement of the Port of Savannah, Directors of the Georgia Ports Authority, meeting here Friday, awarded a $1,791,639.70 contract for the building of piers and other work incidental to starting the construction of a 2,065-foot dock.

Espy Paving and Construction Company, of Savannah, obtained the contract on the low bid. The highest bid of $3,864,730 was by the J. A. Jones Construction Company, of Charlotte, N. C.

Other bids were: Diamond Construction Company, Washington, D. C., $2,124,182; Hardaway Contracting Company, of Columbus, $2,301,700; Dixie Construction Company, of Savannah, $2,489,999.99; Frederick Snare Corporation, of New York City, $3,631,271.

James D. Robinson, Jr., Chairman of the Authority, said that construction work will begin in January.

The proposed 2,065-foot dock, with a 40-foot apron, will berth four of the largest cargo vessels at the same time. In addition, there will be three sheds, with a capacity of 74,000 square feet each, for temporary storage of freight in transit, with platform loading facilities for trucks. Parallel railroad tracks will be located behind the sheds and along the wharf.

Robinson said that the Authority's property in Savannah comprises 407 acres, with a river frontage of 4,328 feet. This property, with improvements, has a value of more than $5,000,000. The warehouses, in profitable operation since 1948, have 2,000,000 square feet of storage space. Adjacent to the warehouse there is a 200-acre tract of land suitable for industrial development.

For this development, Robert & Company, Inc., of Atlanta, are the architects and engineers.

SANTA VISITS FORMWALT ST. MISSION
Children Hug St. Nick at Christmas Party

MISTY BLUR, BUT BIG SMILES

Santa, Big Yule Party Thrill Blind Children

Some of the children couldn't see Santa Claus Friday. To others the gay Christmas lights and the tinsel-trimmed hats were just a misty blur.

But the 12 boys and girls from the Blind and Sight Conservation class at Faith School wore smiles just as radiant as those displayed later in the evening when Santa visited the Formwalt Street Mission, where the children could see.

The blind and the near-blind boys and girls were guests at the Atlanta Lions Club annual Christmas party. And, although the kids there were not lucky enough to see, they could hear the carols and listen spellbound to Mrs. Robert Church's story of "The Shepherd's Pipe."

And, after receiving their gifts, the sightless little ones brought tears to grown-up eyes when they sang: "Happy birthday to you; happy birthday to you, happy birthday, dear Jesus, happy birthday to you!"

Later at the second party, the kids at Formwalt Mission nearly yelled their lungs out when Kris Kringle dropped in on them. Some 20 little girls dressed as angels stood on the Mission porch by the Nativity scene to welcome Santa with carols.

"Silent Night, Holy Night," they sang. But the night was far from silent as more than 100 of the Mission's children crowded around the bewhiskered man from the North Pole to shout their Christmas wishes.

Jury Awards $80,000 in Damage Suit

WAYCROSS, Dec. 15—(AP)—A Federal Court Jury returned an $80,000 damage verdict for two Negro women whose daughters were killed in a school bus-truck collision 12 miles south of here last January.

The verdict was rendered by an all-white jury.

The action was brought in the Waycross Division of the United States District Court by Anna Laura Williams, of Waycross, and Carrie Jackson, of Jacksonville, Fla., against Central Truck Lines, Sherman D. Hogan, driver of the truck, Firemen's Fund Indemnity Company, insurers of the truck, and J. W. Lowder, driver of the school bus.

The jury's verdict was against the first three defendants named. J. W. Lowder, of Waycross, who was the driver of the bus, was absolved of blame in the accident.

The accident occurred on Jan. 21 when a bus carrying a group of Center high school basketball players, returning from a game at Jacksonville, collided with a large interstate truck on U. S. Highway No. 1.

Billie D. Williams, 16, student, was killed instantly in the crash, and Naomi Jackson, 22-year-old teacher, died several days later from injuries. Seven other passengers on the bus were also injured in accident.

3 Experiment Units Studied

Georgia may have seven experiment stations instead of four next year.

Asked by Sen. Walter Harrison to place an experiment station near Millen, Gov. Talmadge Friday disclosed the Board of Regents was planning to establish new stations in northwest (probably at Rome), southwest (probably at Donalsonville), and southeast Georgia, if funds are made available by the Legislature. The University System now operates stations at Blairsville, Athens, Griffin, and Tifton.

Henderson Plea Scheduled Today

An affidavit by Dr. Herman Jones, Director of Fulton County Crime Laboratory, will be introduced at 10 a. m. Saturday in Carroll County Superior Court as part of a special motion for a new trial for Negro Clarence Henderson, Atty. Dan Duke said Friday night.

Duke said the affidavit is to support the defense claim the bullet fired from a gun once owned by Henderson could not have killed Georgia Tech student Carl "Buddy" Stephens, of Carrollton, in 1948.

Opportunity Fund Given $540 Boost

Georgians, concerned about the needs of their poorer, more troubled neighbors, Friday gave $540.75 to the Opportunity Fund.

Apparent Low Bids Announced

A contract for constructing an overpass over the Atlanta and West Point Railroad, near University Ave., as part of the Atlanta expressway apparently will go to W. J. Tidwell, Jr., of Douglasville.

Tidwell's bid was apparently the lowest of nine submitted on the Fulton project Friday to the State Highway Department.

The Department also opened bids on 14 other road projects over the State. It did not award a contract on a project calling for borings for the Wilmington River bridge on the Savannah-Tybee Road in Chatham County. Only one bid was received, and the Department requires three bids for competitive bidding. Engineer M. L. Shadburn said the project, which will cost only approximately $4,800, may be arranged without competitive bidding.

Apparent low bids on other projects follow:

CARROLL—5.157 miles of grading, drainage and paving and one bridge on Carrollton-Hickory level road, Allgood Brothers, Hapeville, $86,187.

CLAY—Bridge over Patula Creek and approaches on Ft. Gaines-Georgetown road, Leo T. Barber, Moultrie, $58,000.

Dry League Picks Officers

A four-point legislative program was adopted and Retiring State Sen. Walter Harrison, of Millen, was named legislative chairman by the Georgia Temperance League's executive committee here Friday.

The group also elected H. W. Pittman, of Macon, to succeed the late Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, as president of the League. Mrs. C. O. Morris and Judge Frank Hooper, both of Atlanta, were elected to the committee, succeeding the late Mrs. Mary H. Armor, of College Park, and the late B. L. Bugg, of Atlanta.

Under the legislative program, the League will work to: Make illegal all advertising of alcoholic beverages in the state; make possible the holding of elections on beer; make mandatory a real program of education in local schools, and limit the possession of a liquor, beer or wine license to only one person in a family.

Pickpockets' Work Eased

A police warning that pickpockets were at work among Christmas crowds was sounded Friday by Robbery Squad Lt. Glynn Cowan who admitted he was somewhat out of patience with "lady shoppers."

"Everywhere I looked downtown," he said, "I saw a woman with her arms filled with bundles and her purse dangling from an arm beneath the bundles. . . . It's simple for someone to unsnap the purse and take the wallet because nine out of 10 women just drop the wallet on top of whatever else is in the purse."

Lt. Cowan said Atlanta police were "swamped with pickpocket complaints." But he pointed out that a pickpocket could not be convicted unless someone actually sees him in the act.

City Schools Set Holidays

Christmas and New Year holidays for 60,000 Atlanta public school students will begin Tuesday, with classes to be resumed in all City schools Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Most schools plan Christmas assemblies and other holiday programs before "turning out."

Cook Elementary School Friday entertained about 150 friends of the school at a "Thank You" luncheon. Mrs. Dorothy Floyd, Principal and President of the Atlanta Public School Teachers Association, and members of the faculty were hosts.

Complete Text of President Truman's Speech on National Crisis

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—The text of President Truman's address to the nation Friday night:

I am talking to you tonight about what our country is up against, and what we are going to do about it.

Our homes, our nation, all the things we believe in are in great danger. This danger has been created by the rulers of the Soviet Union.

For five years we have been working for peace and justice among nations. We have helped to bring the free nations of the world together in a great movement to establish a lasting peace. Against this movement for peace, the rulers of the Soviet Union have been waging a relentless attack. They have tried to undermine or overwhelm the free nations, one by one. They have used threats and treachery and violence.

In June, the forces of Communist imperialism broke out into open warfare in Korea. The UN moved to put down this act of aggression, and, by October, had all but succeeded.

Then in November, the Communists threw their Chinese armies into the battle against the free nations.

By this act, they have shown they are now willing to push the world to the brink of a general war to get what they want. This is the real meaning of the events that have been taking place in Korea.

That is why we are in such grave danger.

Must Act Calmly

The future of civilization depends on what we do—on what we do now, and in the months ahead.

We have the strength and we have the courage to overcome the danger that threatens our country. We must act calmly, wisely and resolutely.

Here are the things we will do:

First, we will continue to uphold, and if necessary to defend with arms the principles of the UN—the principles of freedom and justice.

Second, we will continue to work with the other free nations to strengthen our combined defenses.

Third, we will build up our own Army, Navy and Air Force and make more weapons for ourselves and our Allies.

Fourth, we will expand our economy and keep it on an even keel.

Now, I want to talk to you about each one of these things.

First: We will continue to uphold the principles of the UN. We have no aggressive purpose. We will not use our strength for aggression. We are a tolerant and a restrained people, deeply aware of our moral responsibilities and deeply aware of the horrors of war.

We believe in settling differences by peaceful means, and we have made honest efforts to bring about disarmament. We will continue those efforts, but we cannot yield to aggression.

Though the present situation is highly dangerous, we do not believe that war is inevitable. There is no conflict between the legitimate interests of the free world and those of the Soviet Union that cannot be settled by peaceful means. We will continue to take every honorable step we can to avoid general war.

But we will not engage in appeasement.

The world learned from Munich that security cannot be bought by appeasement.

We are ready, as we have always been, to take part in efforts to reach a peaceful solution of the conflict in Korea. In fact, our representatives at Lake Success are taking part in just such efforts today.

We do not yet know whether the Chinese Communists are willing to enter into honest negotiations to settle the conflict in Korea. If negotiations are possible, we shall strive for a settlement that will make Korea a united, independent and democratic country. That is what the Korean people want, and that is what the UN has decided they are entitled to have.

Meanwhile, our troops in Korea are continuing to do their best to uphold the UN.

Gen. Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army who returned a few days ago from Korea, reported that our military forces there are well organized and well equipped. I am confident that our military forces, together with their comrades in arms from many nations, will continue to give a good account of themselves. They know they are fighting for the freedom and security of their own homes and families.

The danger we face exists not only in Korea. Therefore, the second thing we are going to do is to increase our efforts, with other free nations, to build up defenses against aggression in other parts of the world. In dealing with the Korea crisis, we are not going to ignore the danger of aggression elsewhere.

There is actual warfare in the Far East, but Europe and the rest of the world are also in great danger. The same menace—the menace of Communist aggression—threatens Europe as well as Asia.

To combat this menace, other free nations need our help, and we need theirs. We must work with a sense of real partnership and common purpose with these nations. We must stand firm with our Allies, who have shown their courage and their love of freedom.

Will Defend Europe

The United States, Canada, and the ten nations of Western Europe who are united with us in the North Atlantic Treaty, have already begun to create combined military defenses. Secretary of State Acheson is flying to Europe Sunday. He and representatives of these nations will complete the arrangements for setting up a joint Army, Navy, and Air Force to defend Europe. The defense of Europe is of the utmost importance to the security of the United States.

We will continue to provide assistance to European countries, and to other free countries in other parts of the world, because their defense is also important to our own defense.

The Communist rulers are trying their hardest to split the free nations apart. If they should succeed, they would do staggering damage to the cause of freedom. Unity with our Allies is now, and must continue to be, the foundation of our effort.

Working together, the free nations can create military forces strong enough to convince the Communist rulers that they cannot gain by aggression.

Working together, the free nations can present the common front, backed by strength, which is necessary if we are to be in a position to negotiate successfully with the Kremlin for peaceful settlements.

Working together, we hope we can prevent another World War.

In order to succeed, we in our country have a big job ahead.

That is why the third thing we must do to meet the present danger is to step up our own defense program.

We are expanding our armed forces very rapidly.

We are speeding up the production of military equipment for our own armed forces and for our Allies.

We have a large Navy. We have a powerful Air Force. We have units around which a strong Army can be built. But measured against the danger that confronts us, our forces are not adequate.

On June 25, when the Communists invaded the Republic of Korea, we had less than one and a half million men and women in our Army, Navy, and Air Force. Today, our military strength has reached about two and a half million. Our next step is to increase the number of men and women on active duty to nearly three and a half million.

Add Armed Strength

I have directed the Armed Forces to accomplish this as soon as possible. The Army and the Navy will be able to do this within a few months. It will take the Air Force somewhat longer. In addition to these men and women on active duty, we have about two million more in the National Guard and the Reserves who are subject to call.

As part of the process of achieving a speedier build-up, the number of men to be called up under the Selective Service System has been raised, and two additional National Guard divisions are being ordered to active duty in January.

At the same time, we will have a very rapid speed-up in the production of military equipment. Within one year, we will be turning out planes at five times the present rate of production. Within one year, combat vehicles will be coming off the production line at four times today's rate. Within one year, the rate of production of electronics equipment for defense will have multiplied four and a half times.

These will not be weapons for our own Armed Forces alone, They will constitute an arsenal for the defense of freedom. Out of this arsenal, we will be able to send weapons to other free nations, to add to what they can produce for their own defenses. In this same arsenal, we will provide a large reserve of weapons to equip additional units in our Armed Forces whenever that may be necessary.

Furthermore, while we are working toward these immediate goals in manpower and equipment, we will also expand our training and production facilities so as to make possible a very rapid expansion to full mobilization if that becomes necessary.

We can handle this production program, but it will require hard work.

It will require us to make a lot of changes in our ordinary ways of doing things.

And this brings me to our fourth big job. In order to build the military strength we need, we will have to expand our production greatly. We must also prevent inflation, and stabilize the cost of living.

If we are to make the weapons we need soon enough, we shall have to cut back on many lines of civilian production. But we can not build up and maintain our armed might, and the industrial strength underlying it, simply by cutting back civilian production. We must produce more—more steel, more copper, more aluminum, more electric power, more food, more cotton, more of many other things.

All-Out Effort

We must set very high targets, and be willing to make an all-out effort to reach them. Workers will be called upon to work more hours. More women, and more young people and older workers will be needed in our plants and factories. Farmers will have to set higher production goals. Businessmen will have to put all their know-how to work to increase production.

A defense effort of the size we must now undertake will inevitably push prices up, unless we take positive action to hold them down.

We have already taken a number of steps. We have put restrictions on credit buying. We have increased taxes. I hope that the Congress will enact an excess profits tax at this session. Still further taxes will be needed. We cannot escape paying the cost of our military program. The more we pay by taxes now, the better we can hold prices down. I have directed that recommendations be prepared for early submission to the Congress to put the increased cost of defense as nearly as possible on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

I have also instructed the new Director of the Budget to reduce the non-military expenditures in the new Federal budget to the minimum required to give effective support to the defense effort.

The measures I have just mentioned — credit control, higher taxes and reduced non-military expenditures — are essential. They are our primary defense against inflation, because they strike at the sources of inflation. But as we move into a greatly increased defense effort, we must also take direct measures to keep prices in line.

The Government is starting at once to impose price controls upon a number of materials and products. These will be mainly items important to defense production and the cost of living.

In those fields where price control is imposed, the Government will also undertake to stabilize wages, as the law requires.

In the immediate future, a series of control orders will be announced by the Economic Stabilization Agency.

In addition, the agency will announce fair standards for prices and wages in those cases where mandatory controls are not imposed. I ask everyone concerned not to set prices and wages higher than these standards will allow. If these standards are violated, it will speed-up the imposition of mandatory controls, including roll-backs where needed.

Wilson Aids Defense

As we move ahead with this mobilization effort, there will be increased need for central control over the many Government activities in this field. Accordingly, I am establishing an Office of Defense Mobilization. I am appointing Mr. Charles E. Wilson to be director of this office. Mr. Wilson is resigning as president of the General Electric Company to take this job. In his new position, he will be responsible for directing all the mobilization activities of the Government, including production, procurement, manpower, transportation, and economic stabilization.

The Government is also moving forward with preparations for civil defense. I have appointed former Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida to be Federal Civilian Defense Administrator.

In addition, I have recommended legislation to the Congress which will authorize the Federal Government to help states and cities in their civil defense preparations. I hope the Congress will enact this legislation soon, so that civil defense work which has already started can be greatly speeded up.

These are our plans for making our country stronger.

As we go forward, we must keep clearly in mind the meaning of what we are doing.

Our freedom is in danger.

Sometimes we may forget just what freedom means to us. It is as close to us, as important to us, as the air we breathe. Freedom is in our homes, in our schools, in our churches. It is in our work and our Government and the right to vote as we please. Those are the things that would be taken from us if Communism should win.

Depends on People

Because our freedom is in danger we are united in its defense. Let no aggressor think we are divided. Our great strength is the loyalty and fellowship of a free people. We pull together when we are in trouble, and we do it by our own choice, not out of fear, but out of love for the great values of our American life in which we all have a share.

In this great defense effort that we are undertaking, things may not always go as smoothly as we would wish, either in Washington or in your home town. But remember that we are building our defenses in the democratic way, and not by the iron rule of dictatorship.

Those of us who work in the Government will do our best. But the outcome depends, as it has always depended, on the spirit and energy of our people.

The job of building a stronger America must be done on our farms, in our factories, and in our homes. It must be done by every one of us, wherever we are, and whatever our jobs may be.

"In this time of danger, each of us must accept an individual responsibility for the good of the country.

"Unfortunately, at this moment a railway union and a large number of its members are out on an unlawful strike that has partially paralyzed our railroad system.

"This action has already begun to slow down our industry. It is interfering with the movement of troops; it is holding up equipment for our fighting forces; and our civilian population has begun to suffer.

"This strike is a danger to the security of our nation.

"As commander in chief, therefore, I call upon the union and its striking members to return to work immediately.

"I ask you men who are on strike to realize, that no matter how serious you believe your grievances are, nothing can excuse the fact that you are adding to your country's danger.

"I ask you, in the name of our country, to return immediately to your posts of duty.

Our fighting men in Korea have set an example that should inspire us all. Attacked by superior numbers, and in the bitterest of winter weather, they were resolute, steady and determined. Their steadfast courage in the face of reverses is one of the most heroic stories in our country's history.

In the days ahead, each of us should measure his own efforts, his own sacrifices, by the standard of our heroic men in Korea.

Many of you who are young people will serve in the Armed Forces of your country. Nothing you will do later in life will be of greater benefit to your homes, your communities, or your friends.

Many others of you will have to work longer hours in factories or mines or mills. Think of this not as longer hours, but as more planes, more tanks, more ships, more of all the things that are needed for the defense of your homes and your way of life.

All of us will have to pay more taxes and do without things we like. Think of this, not as a sacrifice, but as an opportunity, an opportunity to defend the best kind of life that men have ever devised.

National Emergency

As I speak to you tonight, aggression has won a military advantage in Korea. We should not try to hide or explain away that fact.

By the same token, we should draw renewed courage and faith from the response of the free world to that aggression. What the free nations have done in Korea is right. Men all over the world know it is right. Whatever temporary setbacks there may be, the right will prevail in the end.

Because of all these things I have been talking about with you, I will issue a proclamation tomorrow morning declaring that a national emergency exists. This will call upon every citizen to put aside his personal interests for the good of the country. All of our energies must be devoted to the tasks ahead of us.

No nation has ever had a greater responsibility than ours has at this moment. We must remember that we are the leaders of the free world. We must understand that we can not achieve peace by ourselves, but only by cooperating with other free nations and with the men and women who love freedom everywhere.

We must remember that our goal is not war but peace. Throughout the world our name stands for international justice and for a world based on the principles of law and order. We must keep it that way. We are willing to negotiate differences, but we will not yield to aggression. Appeasement of evil is not the road to peace.

The American people have always met danger with courage and determination. I am confident we will do that now, and, with God's help, we shall keep our freedom.
